Snow doubt Snow din

As Melissa Merrill shoveled, Paul Godzyk climbed onto the roof of his Lowell St. home. Joanne Merrill held the ladder. They were preparing for the next (Wednesday) storm and the Friday storm to follow. Paul knows snow on a flat roof can cause disaster.

Church Street in Wilmington Square is always a tricky spot. You pull half way up the hill, stop for the red light and can proceed no further, trapping dozens of cars behind you. This driver backed up cars past the police station on Tuesday afternoon. Several people gave up and turned around, others passed up the down side of the road.

Youth charged in roll-over accident

by Jeff Nazzaro
A Wilmington teenager was charged by police with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol, using a car without authority and operating without a license following an accident on Glen Road Friday night.

The youth, a 15-year-old male, was allegedly intoxicated when he borrowed the family car without permission and took it out for a drive, according to police. The trip ended abruptly however when the driver lost control of the vehicle, which rolled over once on Glen Road.

The juvenile was not hurt as a result of the accident but was placed under arrest when police arrived. He refused a breathalyzer test and was released into the custody of his mother after being charged.

Karen Mielke contributed to this report.

Grand opening 2 - 3 weeks away!

by Jeff Nazzaro
After nearly a year of dedicated hard work, the Alliance for Wilmington Youth remains stuck.

The Wilmington Youth Center, situated in the basement of Villanova Hall, is all but done - the center is painted, carpeted and furnished; the video games, pool and Ping-Pong tables are in place and the kids are practically lined up at the door.

And last week, the Knights of Columbus generously contributed one of the few missing pieces - $600 for the purchase of a television set.

All that remains, really, are inspections - of the wheelchair lift, and the center as a whole for fire safety.

With all that is going right and as close as they are, after the more than $35,000 in private donations that have gone into the center, the Alliance is experiencing a little financial difficulty.

"The place is 95 percent complete," said Alliance member Sid Tildsley. "We're ready to open within the next two to three weeks. But we have to get some money, too."

What the Alliance needs is just between $500-$1000, to help defray operational costs until $10 membership fees and receipts from the snack shack and video games start to come in - which will only happen once the center is open.

To help the Alliance for Wilmington Youth, through a cash donation of any size, get the center up and running, contact Joe Langone's Northeast Development offices at 658-7188.

38 graduate Tech practical nursing school

Thirty-eight men and women took part in a candlelight capping ceremony Thursday, Jan. 4 at Shawsheen Tech. The ceremony signifies achievement of the adult students attending the Shawsheen Valley School of Practical Nursing, which offers a 120-month program to prepare post secondary students for the state licensing exam. Those who successfully pass this test become licensed practical nurses, or LPNs. Those honored at the ceremony included:

Michelle Ford, Diane Fitch and Patricia Morneau, all of Tewksbury and Lisa Margitta and Colleen Rooney of Wilmington.

Testing Feb. 15

To become a part of the 1996-97 class, area adults can take the entrance examination on Feb. 15 at 6 p.m., at the school. For more information, call the school at 667-2111, ext. 103. The two-and-a-half hour test begins promptly at 6:30 and covers basic science and math. It tests an individual's aptitude for nursing and does not require any medical background.

Now in its second year, the program attracts people of all ages, from all walks of life, many of whom also work part time or full time and/or are switching careers.

Calling off school

by Bill Conlon

It's 6 a.m. on a school day and kids in Tewksbury and Wilmington are gathered around their radios. Most would never listen to an AM radio station, but on this day their attention is locked there.

After all, it's snowing! With fingers crossed they listen, breathing a sigh of relief when the announcer finally says, "And here's the latest list of school cancellations from the WXYZ storm center..."

"Amesbury, Attleboro, Bedford, Billerica..." the kids squirm as the list is read off. Perhaps they can sense it coming, or perhaps they're just caught up in the excitement of expectation. "Burlington, Bedford, Concord-Carlisle, Dracut..."

At last the announcer makes his way down the list, and the kids are all ears. "Somerville, Stoneham, Taunton, Tewksbury..." Hurray! No school today!

(Parents groan, but that's not the point of this story...)

A few miles south, more kids are gathered by their radios. They just heard that Tewksbury kids will get the day off, and they're listening for the magic word "Wilmington." If the announcer speaks the lucky word, the day will be filled with snowmen and sledding.

But how is the decision reached to call off school, and how is the word spread?

In Tewksbury, the decision to call off the school day rests exclusively with School Superintendent Dr. Christine McGrath, who lives near Gloucester. Wilmington's decision comes from School Superintendent Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, from her home near Boston.

Both superintendents sometimes get to make the decision the night before, but only if the storm is intense and is forecast to last into the morning.

More frequently, however, the two superintendents must make the decision that morning.

And their day begins at 4 a.m., in the dark, with a telephone and a cup of coffee.

Both McGrath and O'Donnell get on the phone early, around 4 a.m. The first calls are made to the local police and the town DPW. "How are the roads?" they'll ask, and the status of the school parking lots will be questioned as well. If the town has its hands full keeping the major roads clear, the school yards may have to wait.

But the police and DPW provide only part of the information used in a school closure decision.

Dr. McGrath phones the school superintendents in Billerica, Dracut and several other towns, to get their feeling for the storm and conditions on the roads. Dr. O'Donnell is on the phone to superintendents from Woburn and other towns near Wilmington, but sooner or later the two are talking to each other. Long before sunrise, Drs. McGrath and O'Donnell are talking on the phone to each other, to see what the other thinks about the storm, and to seek support for each other's decision.

After all, if Tewksbury calls off school, but Wilmington doesn't, it might raise a few questions.

The objective, McGrath said, is to make the decision in time for the 5 a.m. TV newscasts. By 4:45 a.m., at the latest, the decision has been reached. Call off school, delay the opening, or go ahead with classes?

If the decision is to close or delay, then the two superintendents won't get off the phone for a long time to come.

Dr. McGrath calls her assistant superintendents, John Ryan and Dr. Joe Walsh, and Dewing Principal Jack Weir. Each of them have their own list of people to call, and so on down the line.

Dr. O'Donnell calls her assistant superintendent, Dr. Peter Rock, plus her secretary, Wilmington's special education director and the school's transportation director.

Calls must be placed to the cafeteria managers, the bus company, the out-of-district special education facilities, the custodial staff, and the DPW and police to let them know the schools will be closed, or that the opening will be delayed.

Keep in mind, all of this is done long before the youngsters turn on the radio in the morning.

Getting the word to the radio and TV stations is a challenge in its own right. There is no central clearing point for school closures, so each station must be called individually. The top school officials on each of the two towns' telephone networks are tasked with calling one or more stations.

Several broadcasters still rely on operators, while others now use automated answering machines to speed up the process.

"It's very sophisticated," said Dr. McGrath of the new system. In the past, she notes, it was common to get a busy signal, over and over, while trying to alert the radio and TV stations. The new answering machines make the process easier, but the system is hardly perfect.

McGrath said she goes through an automatic answering machine when calling Channel 7, for instance. The recorded message asks her to type in the 4-digit school system code number over the phone, then type in her 8-digit verification number, to prove that she is the individual authorized to call off school for the Town of Tewksbury.

The security system keeps school from being called off by someone who is not authorized to do so. The security codes are provided by the stations, and they are changed at the start of each school year, she said.

Once past the security system, Dr. McGrath said, she must pick one of 25 options offered by Channel 7. Option #1 is the easiest: All schools are closed for the day.

But in last week's snowstorm, on January 3, Dr. McGrath ran into a problem. Of the 25 options offered by the answering machine, none of them allowed her to delay school by 90 minutes, with no morning kindergarten and no preschool. Option #14 came closest, with a 90 minute delay and no kindergarten, but the parents of preschoolers were left to guess if there would be preschool that day. Since there is no operator to talk to, there is no way to alert the stations to the problem. All those numbers typed in, and still the message is incomplete.

"It's like typing in the Gettysburg Address over the phone," McGrath said, just to get the message out.

Four times so far this season, the schools in both towns were closed due to winter storms, along with several "delayed openings."

On all four days, not counting all the decisions to hold school in spite of storms and doubtful conditions, the school superintendents from Tewksbury and Wilmington were on the phone long before dawn, calling the police and DPW, other superintendents, radio stations, TV stations, bus companies, cafeteria workers, school officials, more school officials, the police again...

While all the kids had to do was to sit by the radio and listen, with fingers crossed.

DISABILITY INSURANCE AND TAXES

As if it weren't bad enough to become disabled, too sick to work, many people then discover that their disability benefits, however slim, are subject to income tax!

Two factors work against the disabled employee. First, company disability benefits are generally limited to 60 percent of base salary, not including commissions or bonuses. Second, the benefits are taxable, says the Internal Revenue Service, unless the employee paid tax on the company paid premiums, and few companies include the premiums when calculating the worker's taxable income, not wanting to raise everyone's taxes.

In some cases, where employer and employee have split the cost of premiums, only the employer paid portion is taxable.

Where possible, workers can ask that taxes be levied on the premiums; the amount is minimal. The more expensive alternative is buying individual long term disability coverage.

Editorial

Incredible smoking hubbub

by Jeff Nazzaro

The state's anti-smoking forces are at it again, this time with Attorney General Scott Harshbarger and his $1 billion lawsuit against the tobacco industry leading the way. Actually, the suit is old news, having been filed last month. But in a weighty packet Harshbarger has sent to this newspaper (and presumably every other one in the commonwealth) he is, according to a cover letter penned by AG's office director of communications Edward Cafasso, "asking for [my] editorial support for this massive legal undertaking that has enormous potential financial and health care implications for the Commonwealth's taxpayers and children."

Here then is my editorial support.

But first, a few prefatory remarks. As an accomplished smoker, I just don't feel like I'm getting my 25 cents-per-pack tax worth from the state. Oh sure, the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's expensive ad campaign is cute and all. The Doonesbury Mr. Butts spots are funny and charming and never fail to cause me to light up, and the union man cutting and pasting a picture of his pig-tailed daughter onto his pack of Marlboro's remains a tear-jerking, feel-good classic, but still I wonder, if it were 50 cents a pop, maybe they could enlist Steven Spielberg to produce short films telling me that cigarettes are naughty and smelly and, alas, bad for me. On the flip side, the tobacco industry, for all the coinage I give them every year, seems to lack confidence in me as a knowledgeable consumer. Can't they just tell me they're selling me addictive poison and let me relax about it? I need to know. In short, I'm just not paying enough money to either side of this ridiculous '90s political debate to be called an idiot by both.

Now the editorial.

Smoking is very, very bad. It is addictive and kills lots of people every year. The tobacco industry should pay for this and should also stop picking on children and lying to everybody.

There, I said it. Now, a little common sense.

It seems ridiculous to go back and sue an entire industry for a century of supposed deceit and responsibility for the deaths of what Harshbarger claims is 10,000 people yearly in Massachusetts. I mean first, prove it. We'll see what the courts eventually say, but if any crew of lawyers can prove that one person who died yesterday did so because of cigarettes it will be astounding. To put the blame on cigarettes for tens of thousands of deaths, and prove each instance, is just plain unfiltered fancy.

The lawsuit is being billed as "a difficult fight against an extremely well-financed opponent that is adept at legal maneuvering and the manipulation of public opinion." What is the government, then, with its fat, smoker-paid tax coffers, pro bono legal services and control of the public airways? I don't think the state is the underdog here, despite the billions the tobacco industry rakes in and pays out to wage its own end of the battle. Nobody likes smoking, nobody thinks kids should smoke and nobody believes what the tobacco industry says. They certainly don't get any favors from the media, unlike the government - everytime a painfully obvious new study linking cigarette smoking to yellow fingernails comes out it's front page news.

So where does that leave us? Mired in a political campaign waged by professional politicians looking for notoriety and bored conservative housewives searching for a cause but unwilling to take up truly important issues like education and healthcare (it seems rather obtuse to assume that eliminating smoking will end sickness and death and thus end the need for healthcare).

Fortunately, in Wilmington, we have most of the good fallout from the incredible smoking hubbub. Here, the tobacco control portion of the board of health, founded in 1993 with revenue from the aforementioned, voter-mandated cigarette tax, has done its best to educate the town's children about the potential dangers of smoking while also making it more difficult for them to purchase cigarettes.

The downside is that it doesn't seem to be working very well. While statistics on smoking in Wilmington are not available, teen smoking in the state and nationwide is on the rise. But that shouldn't be surprising - the more smoking is highlighted as bad and wrong, the more commercials there on MTV, the more kids become interested in, or at least curious about, the age-old rebellious activity of smoking. Still, state statistics on teen smoking can be misleading. For instance, the state shows a nearly 20 percent increase in smoking by ninth graders, but smoking consists of having "used [cigarettes] at least once in the 30 days prior to the survey." Which doesn't a smoker make.

Hopefully, a good percentage of these kids are only curious and will get it out of their systems. Most will. The sad part is that even as the tobacco industry clings to the bogus assertion that cigarettes are not addictive, the state is not exactly helpful in supplying such information. The nature of nicotine addiction is exaggerated and misleading and many young people, after having smoked occasionally for as little as six months are convinced they are hooked on cigarettes and that that addiction is as powerful as if they were on heroin. I know I was and it was just not true. The fact is that addiction takes much longer to develop and many who could quit easily while still young mistakenly believe that the prospect is hopeless at worst, daunting at best. The truth is that most addiction is in the mind, and inflating the facts only fuels the brain to think it has been put in a position by the body that it cannot escape.

Which doesn't mean town officials should stop trying. As with anything, it is just a matter of presenting the facts and then taking the chances. Limiting ways youngsters can obtain cigarettes doesn't hurt either and in that regard, Wilmington is succeeding. So much so, in fact, that one youth this past week walked into a Main Street retail establishment, took a pack of smokes and left $2 on the counter, without saying a word. The plan is working. However, it still needs teeth. Monday, the board of health was scheduled to resume discussion on licensing cigarette retailers, a proposal townspeople should endorse. Currently, there are $300 fines for merchants violating the underage sales law; but some might feel they can earn more in selling to teens year round and coughing up the three bills once or twice if they happen to get caught. If the board passes their plan, they would be able to hold hostage retailers' ability to sell the products to anyone, and, despite what anyone might say, there is much more money to be made from selling tobacco products to the over 18 crowd than the under.

This space has been critical of Board of Health Chairman Dr. Jim Ficociello in the past for what was perceived as an overzealous approach to the issue of smoking in the town. But Ficociello has shown he can hear both sides of the issue and in the end he, the board and Public Health Director Gregory Erickson have been reasonable in dealing with the issue. The same cannot be said for everyone involved.

Letter to the editor

Transcontinental homework

Dear Larz:

My name is Michael Yeo. I am a fifth grade student at Olivewood School in Lake Forest, California.

This year I chose your state [Massachusetts] to study as we work on state history.

Before I present my state report to my class I would like to find out what it is like in your state now. What are your favorite foods? What do you do for fun? Is it different now than 28 years ago when my own school was first open? What are your schools like? Where do people work?

Would you print my letter in your newspaper? Perhaps some of your readers would write to me.

I really am interested. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Michael Yeo

Relax! This is New England

by Bill Conlon

Oh, no! More snow! HELP!!!

Folks, please! Relax. Take a deep breath. Say "ommmmm." Think happy thoughts.

This is New England. It snows in New England. This is normal.

For the past 10 or 15 years, New England has gotten off easy on snowfall. In fact, last year was ridiculously light on both snow and cold. Why, there was hardly any winter at all last year! Did we complain about it?

This year, we're back to a "normal" winter for New England, if there is such a thing. This is the sort of winter that many of us remember as kids. Granted, we were a bit shorter back then, so the head-high snowbanks of yesteryear might not have been quite so high as we might recall them, but that's fine. Our kids will recall these snowbanks the same way. There's no problem. This is what winter is supposed to be like.

Don't panic when the weatherheads say records are falling left and right. Weatherheads love to use the word "record" when talking about weather. A record number of hurricanes. A record accumulation of snow on the ground. Record-breaking sunshine. Don't take them seriously. Panic is good for their ratings.

This is New England. It's winter. It's supposed to be snowing.

The rest of the country sees us as rugged and practical Yankees, stoically toughing out anything that God sees fit to throw at us. A foot of snow? No problem. Another foot for the weekend? Big deal! We've got our woodpile and shovels, snowblowers and warm clothes, and plenty of rock salt. We can ride this out. If the power goes out, we'll eat what's in the freezer first, then start working on the canned foods. No problem. If we're down to dry lentils and onions by April, that's the way it goes. So what!

Please, folks, don't ruin a centuries-old reputation for Yankee toughness by panicking over a little snow. Or even a lot of snow. Don't let the rest of the country laugh at "hardy" New Englanders running wild-eyed through the supermarkets, scooping up bread and milk like there won't any more until Spring. Show a little New England Pride! Let the rest of the country ask "How can those poor people stand it?"

Easy. We're New Englanders. We don't complain or whine, we just hunker down and tough it out. The Blizzard of '96? Premature! What happens if a bigger storm comes along? Will that one become the "Great Blizzard of '96"? Or the Blizzard of '96, Part II? Sillyness. It's just snow.

Please, pour yourself a cup of tea, sit by the window and enjoy the storm. It is lovely, in its own way. And by Memorial Day, all of this will be just a memory. (We'll discuss flooding some other time. It will melt, you know!)

This is New England. If we can't take it, nobody can. Be calm. Relax.

Tewksbury

Tewksbury teachers were pictured braving the bitter weather on a picket line protesting stalled contract talks. Among those taking part in the protest were Junior High School physical education teacher Martha Doukaszewicz and Tewksbury Teachers' Association President and High School teacher Richard Mousseau.

Selectmen voted unanimously to issue Peter Hallisey a class two license needed to open a used car dealership in the 50,000 square foot building at 333 Main St., then used as a distribution center by Wang computers.

Friends, admirers and former players were invited to a very special evening for former Tewksbury High School girls' basketball coach Barry Sheehan who brought so much to a sport that he coached for 10 years at TMHS. The event was scheduled to be held at the Longmeadow Golf Club.

Police Officer Robert Westaway was pictured as he explained the town's new anti-drug program during a forum held at TMHS.

The Tewksbury Squirts tied Wakefield 4-4, through the goal scoring of Danny Gangemi, David Desrochers, Steven Pretive, and Jeff Olson, assisted by Billy Dooley, David Crowe and Kevin Nazzaro.

Wilmington

Five members of the Republican Town Committee were asked to resign their posts due to their endorsement of the Democratic candidate for representative from Wilmington and Ward 6 of Woburn - Fred Cain.

The five, included Wavie M. Drew, also a selectwoman of the town and member of the committee for 16 years; Lloyd C. Bender, former selectman; Robert F. Leahy, Charles H. Black and Stanley Webber.

Mrs. Drew told the Town Crier that she would not resign her seat on the Republican Town Committee and that she endorsed Mr. Cain because he was a man of integrity and action who has accomplished an awful lot for Wilmington and could do a lot more than his opponent could dream of doing. She also insisted that the committee did not have a quorum and voted 11 to 3 to exclude a representative of the Town Crier. This, Mrs. Drew said, was an illegal procedure and casts a reflection on any decision made in a closed door meeting.

Other members of the committee were not contacted.

On the suggestion of Madelyn McKie, a telegram was sent to the Mass. DPW requesting a second hearing for the layout of Route 129 Alternative.

David Cone, David Hooper, John Barry and Phillip Morrissey were pictured as members of a male quartet (three trumpets and a woodwind) who entertained during intermission of the High School Holiday Concert.

Members of the woodwind quarter, Debbie Lother, Betty Godzyk, Patricia Vayo and Cheryl Lawler were also pictured entertaining the WHS concert intermission.

Bob Wright was buried like the rest of us. Here he is framed by snow laden pines as he clears the walk in front of his Church Street house. (There is a snow blower behind that snow bank)

Tewksbury Golden Age

Our annual New Year's Eve Party was a great success. The evening started with the luscious dinner catered by Therese Catering of Tewksbury. The food was excellent, the service great and their cleanup crew did a super-duper job. Thanks Therese. The music was provided by the Good Guys. It was enjoyed by everyone.

We had couples dancing, line dancing and of course our favorite "Miami Mixer." This gives all of our single ladies a chance to swing with a partner. Thanks to everyone who donated gifts for our door prizes. Just before midnight Father Time (Ray Brouseau) arrived, gave us a few words of advice and left. Then our New Year's Baby arrived (Millie Hansen) and her Angel (Bob Mann). The baby bottle and pacifier had to be seen to be appreciated. You wouldn't find a cuter baby or a sexier angel anywhere. Thank you Father Time, Baby and Angel for adding to our festivities.

As midnight approached the noise makers were in hand - the streamers were ready and the balloons were ready to fall. The count down started. Should Old Acquaintance...Happy New Year 1966. Then came the fun part, all the hugs, kisses and tears. If you weren't friendly when you came to the party you sure were friendly when you left.

I want to thank my committee for the many hours of hard work that went into making this a fun evening. And thanks to everyone else who helped in any way, it sure paid off. I would like to wish everyone a Happy and Healthy New Year.

UNINTENTIONAL AEROSOL BOMB

QUESTION: Is it true that aerosol cans can explode when exposed to heat?

ANSWER: It is very true. One woman threw an empty aerosol can on a trash fire and was killed when it exploded and hurled a sharp piece of metal cutting her jugular vein. Keep aerosol cans away from heat.

To dispose of them, give the valve one last squeeze to be sure all the pressure is relieved, then put the can into the trash. Cans still being used should never be set on stoves or near other hot places.

This includes the trunk or back window of a car. They have been known to explode from the sun's heat.

She was also the granddaughter of the late John Munro.

Her funeral was scheduled for Saturday at 9 a.m. from Tewksbury Funeral Home, followed by a funeral mass in St. William's Church.

Donations made in her memory to the Jimmy Fund, 375 Longwood Ave., Boston, MA 02115, will be appreciated.

George J. Pickowicz

formerly of Wilmington/Tewksbury

George J. Pickowicz, 71 of Franklin, N.H., formerly of Wilmington and Tewksbury, died Thursday, Jan. 4, 1996 at his home following a long illness.

Born in Billerica, August 15, 1924, he was the son of the late John and Katherine (Hutschulak) Pickowicz. He was a 1943 graduate of Wilmington High School, attended aviation school and carpentry school and lived in Tewksbury for many years.

A member of the Tewksbury Rod and Gun Club, he was an avid hunter and enjoyed panning for gold.

Mr. Pickowicz worked as a carpenter for many years and was employed with L.M. Marion and Sons of Tewksbury and Robert C. Wilkins Co. of Lowell. He was a former member of the Home Building Association of Massachusetts.

He is survived by his wife, Blanche (Marion) Pickowicz; a daughter, Nancy Ingle of California; five sons, George Pickowicz Jr., Michael Pickowicz, Paul Pickowicz, Donald Pickowicz and John Pickowicz, all of New Hampshire, a sister Jean Toti of Wilmington; several grandchildren; a great-grandchild and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

He was also the brother of the late Helen Allen and William Pickowicz.

A Mass of Christian burial was scheduled for Monday, Jan. 8 in St. Joseph Church, Belmont, N.H. with the Rev. Marc Drouin, pastor as celebrant. Spring burial will be in South Road Cemetery, Belmont, N.H. Arrangements were under the direction of the J. Douglas Smart and Scott W. Davis funeral directors.

Donations made in his memory may be made to the Leukemia Society of America, 180 Rust Craft Rd., Dedham, MA 02026 or to the Franklin Visiting Nurses Association/Hospice, PO Box 65, Franklin, N.H. 03235.

Backyard Birding

by Hugh Wiberg

(Editor's note: Hugh Wiberg, gardener, birder, and author, will write a monthly birding column for the Town Crier, through May. Readers are invited to write to the Town Crier, Box 939, Wilmington 01887 with birding questions. Wiberg will answer them in his next column.)

If ever the birds needed a little assistance from their human friends, that time is right now!

With one of the heaviest snow covers in the area since 1978, the birds are delighted to avail themselves of our generosity via our backyard bird feeders. Here on Middlesex Avenue in North Wilmington, we have eight feeders out, and between 7 and 11 a.m. (the birds' busiest feeding time) the yard is abuzz with non stop activity. A little later in this column I will list our "regulars" to give you a better idea of the winter birds which can be enticed to your yard with the right kinds of food.

First though, here are some suggestions which, hopefully, will help you to bring a variety of native birds into your yard:

1. Feeders. Contrary to popular belief, there are squirrel proof bird feeders available. They may cost a bit more, but they stand the test of time, and will keep the squirrels from eventually driving you insane. The Wilmington Pet Store (634 Main St., Wilmington) has a nice assortment of feeders, several of which are squirrel proof. Don't even think about buying a wood feeder - the squirrels will demolish it with no trouble at all.

2. Feed. There is a wide variety of bird seed available for us to choose from. Over the years, I have narrowed down the choices in our yard to just four food items: oil sunflower seeds, thistle, suet, and bread scraps. These four basics can attract up to 20 different species of birds to your yard. I stopped putting out the cheap "mixed" seed many years ago when I realized that (a) the birds we are trying to attract are not especially fond of the tiny milo and millet seeds which constitute the bulk of the mixed seed, and (b) the milo and millet seeds, which the birds discard to get at the sunflower seeds, attract squirrels and other rodents into the yard. The bread and cracker scraps we scatter on the ground will satisfy the ground feeders - those species who are reluctant to perch on the feeders. Included in this group are mourning doves, juncos, sparrows, cardinals and starlings.

The most important bird food is sunflower seed. Of the two types available, striped and oil, the wintering birds prefer the oil seed by about two to one. (The oil sunflower seed is the smaller of the two types and is solid black without the striping.) You can purchase oil sunflower seed anywhere bird supplies are sold for about $8.00 for 25 pounds, and $13.00 to $15.00 for 50 pounds. Of course, you can buy seed in five pound bags, at a considerably higher cost per pound. I happen to be very fond of woodpeckers. The two species we can expect to see in our yards are the downy and the hairy. In every way except size the two types are identical. The hairy woodpecker is about half again larger than the diminutive downy. Suet is the key with the woodpeckers - if you put some suet out you will almost certainly attract woodpeckers within a few days.

Rubber coated metal suet holders are inexpensive and can be found anywhere bird supplies are sold. I purchase beef suet at the local supermarket (DeMoulas) for .59 a pound and cut it into three to four inch chunks. It freezes nicely and will last indefinitely if kept frozen. In addition to woodpeckers, chickadees, nuthatches, titmice, bluejays and mockingbirds will occasionally dine on the suet. Starlings, unfortunately, are very fond of suet also.

To attract the finches which are common here in the northeast, you might consider putting up a thistle feeder. Although the finches will take sunflower seeds if no thistle is available, they are very partial to the tiny black thistle seeds. Be cautioned, though, thistle seed is expensive, running about a dollar a pound: Even in 20 and 50 pound bags, the price will be in the .75 a pound range.

I have one thistle feeder and there is a very healthy population of goldfinches in our yard every day. This winter, for whatever the reasons, house and purple finches have been almost non-existent, at least in our yard. Two other finches which may show up here in Wilmington before the winter is over are pine siskins and red polls, which come south into New England when the snow cover is very heavy in Canada. Last winter we watched a flock of 40 to 50 red polls enjoying the thistle and sunflower seed here on Middlesex Avenue, all through January and February.

Bread scraps will keep the ground feeders happy. The juncos, mourning doves and sparrows, none of which like to feed above the ground, will find your bread quickly, as will the crows and starlings. If you can locate a day-old bread store, you can often buy a big bag of week old bread for very little money. I stop at the Arnold Outlet on Rt. 38 in Woburn, across from the fire station) once a week - Tuesdays and Thursdays are the best days - and spend all of 50 cents for a huge bag of bread. Usually there are as many as 12 to 15 loaves of bread in each bag, along with a scattering of other bakery products. This is without a doubt the best "bang for the buck" available, if you want to keep your ground feeders happy.

Here in North Wilmington we are seeing the following "regulars" in our back yard: goldfinches (40-50), morning doves (25-30), slate colored juncos (12-15), starlings (20-25), chickadees (6-8), white breasted nuthatches (3-4), tufted titmice (4-6), blue jays (5-7), English sparrows (8-10), crows (5-7), redbreasted nuthatch (1), mocking bird (1), Carolina wren (1), downy woodpeckers (5-7), hairy woodpeckers (2-3) and cardinals (2).

Occasionally you will observe that there are almost no birds to be seen in your yard and the question is asked - "Where have the birds gone?" One possible explanation of this, witnessed here in our yard, is the presence of a hawk in the area. Whenever there is a hawk around the birds will keep a very low profile. The numbers of Coopers and sharp shinned hawks, the native hawks who occasionally dine on the smaller birds, is up this year, according to all reports. We had a Coopers hawk in the neighborhood for several days in December, and the usual "regulars" were nowhere to be seen most of the time. Finally this predator disappeared and the backyard activity returned to normal.

A suggestion for beginning "birders": if you have not already done so, find and purchase a copy of Peterson's "Eastern Birds," which is without much doubt the very best reference work available on all of the birds - land and shore - we will encounter here in New England. Lauriat's at Burlington Mall has this book in stock.

Anyone seen any unusual visitors in their back yard this winter? If you have, give me a call at 658-5852 and we'll include your sighting in next month's column.

In February we'll address common bird feeding problems, including squirrels, cats and hawks.

Bits & Pieces

Birthdays

Beth Murch of Marjorie Road, Wilmington tried, but couldn't quite slip her January 8 birthday by unnoticed, somebody "snatched."

Susan Carrozza of Wilmington will be serenaded by friends and relatives January 12.

At least six area residents will be observing birthdays January 14, including Ernie Boudreau of Rhodes Street, Wilmington, Kerri Cassidy of Chestnut Street, Nancy Sciarappa of Sherwood Road, Paul DeGennaro of Presidential Drive, Leslie Eldridge of Dorothy Avenue, and Connie Ryder of Clinton Street.

January 15 will mark the special day of Ralph Allen of Church Street, John Tobin of Burnap Street and Kristen Cipriani, all of Wilmington.

Bobby Fleming of Buzzell Drive, Wilmington and Lois Boudreau of Rhodes Street will share birthday greetings January 16.

Cathy McManus of Sheridan Road, Wilmington will turn another page January 17.

Jim Downs Sr. of Woburn Street, Wilmington and Dean Goldsworthy of Brentwood Road, Tewksbury will both be a year wiser January 19.

Pat Gilligan of Chestnut Street, Wilmington and Marion Murphy of Carson Avenue will be listening to the strains of "Happy Birthday" January 20.

Anniversary

Robert and Linda Briggs of Starr Avenue, Tewksbury will dance be celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary January 14.

Diane and Richie Buttarro of High Street, Wilmington will observe their wedding anniversary January 22.

To enter

To enter an item in Bits & Pieces, call the Town Crier at 658-2346 days or 658-2907 nights and weekends. Ask for BeeDee.

Send entries to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Inc., Dept. C 203 Diamond St., Sisterville, WV 26175.

Tip o' the ol' fedora

A tip o' the ol' fedora goes this week to Dave Fullerton of Main Street, Wilmington who's neighbors are grateful to him for making the local fire hydrant nearly impossible to miss.

Dave cut a hydrant shape from weatherproof material; painted it red; placed it atop a six foot pole and stuck the pole into a snowbank, indicating to emergency workers, just where they might find the area's hydrant...and that's not all, according to area residents, he shovels the hydrant after each snowstorm...well done, Dave; very well done, indeed!!!

Michelle Cairn Nortonen

Michele Cairn Nortonen, former assistant principal of the Shawsheen School in Wilmington and currently principal of Danville Elementary School in New Hampshire, was one of 23 participants honored recently at the 7th Annual Gold Circle Partnership Achievement Awards.

Sponsored by the N.H. Office of the Governor, the N.H. Department of education, and N.H. Partners in Education, Danville Elementary School was commended for establishing a "truly collaborative venture between education and the community" through the implementation of three innovative programs: Wee Deliver, Travel-mates, and an after school program.

Mrs. Nortonen was also notified of her school's selection as a recipient of the Blue Ribbon School Achievement Award, which will be presented at a ceremony January 19 at the Sheraton Tara Hotel in Nashua. This award recognizes the "cooperative efforts between school and community that have resulted in an outstanding school volunteer program benefiting the children of the community."

Mrs. Nortonen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Cairn of Chestnut Street, Wilmington, and early in her career, taught at Wilmington's Wildwood School.

MCC art course scholarships

New or current Middlesex Community College (MCC) students who show exceptional artistic talent, are encouraged to apply for MCC Art Department course scholarships. Interested students must take three original works of art to room 107 of the Central Academic building on the Bedford campus between 4:30 and 6 p.m., Tues., Jan. 16. The artwork will be reviewed between 6 and 6:30 at which time scholarship recipients will be notified.

All work submitted will be returned immediately following the award announcements. Call 617-280-3200.

Credit Union asks for Tewks. police station

How much is Tewksbury's police station worth? The answer might come as a surprise.

With a new police station under construction, Tewksbury wants to know what it can get for the current station, which is sagging and has extensive cracks visible from the outside of the structure.

The Tewksbury Municipal Employee's Federal Credit Union has asked to use the old facility for a monthly rent of $500 and a 99-year lease, which includes an option to buy at $180,000. The credit union now rents space at 853 Main Street, the same building as the Bradford Cafe and Tewksbury Hardware.

The Lowell property appraisal firm of Sagendorf, Taupier and Associates, Inc., placed the value of the police station, in its existing condition, at $233,000. The appraiser set the rental value of the commercially-zoned site at $8 per square foot for the 3,928 square foot building. The appraisal was done in March of 1995.

Sagendorf, Taupier placed the fair market value of the land, with no building, at $195,000. The station sits on 6.5 acres of land, of which 1.5 acres is usable due to extensive wetlands.

The Tewksbury Board of Selectmen this week tabled the police station issue, due to the absence of Selectman Pete Hanson.

THREE MORE BIG CONSIDERATIONS

There is an old saying that there are three crucial factors in determining value in real estate - location, location and location. There are actually three more factors! These are timing, timing and timing. Real estate values tend to go in cycles, with property values reflecting what is going on in the community. If the local economy is doing well, prices tend to increase. At the same time, prices tend to stabilize or decrease during an economic slowdown. People who have done very well with real estate over the years have great instincts about when to buy and sell. They master the art of buying when the market is on the way down and selling when it is on the way up, without a great deal of concern about whether or not they made the best possible bargain in the transaction. They also understand that investments are long term. For example, it may take years for a rental property to turn a great cash flow or for equity build up to become substantial. In this business, timing is absolutely crucial.

Wilmington senior topics

Commissioners

meet January 16

The first Commissioners' meeting of 1996 will be held in the function room Tuesday, January 16 from 1:30 p.m. The commissioners would like to see more seniors attending these meetings. Every meeting is being televised.

Dr. Mullin

Podiatrist Dr. Mullin will be at the Center Wednesday, at 9 a.m., January 17. He will be treating ailments of the feet. For an appointment call 657-7595 or 658-2258, before the 17th.

Blood pressure/diabetes tests

Nurse Ann will be at the Center Thursday, January 18 to check blood pressures and administer diabetes tests, starting at 1:30 p.m. Remember that diabetes is a silent illness. It can be active in our system unknown to us until it becomes a serious medical problem. The simple blood test Ann will give detects whether the sugar level is high. In most cases she will refer one to their own doctor. He/she will put you on a diet that can easily drop the level. If it is too high the doctor will prescribe medication. After the holidays it is wise to have your sugar and cholesterol levels checked.

Center closed Monday

Monday, January 15 is Martin Luther King Day, a holiday. The Center will be closed. The minibuses and respite care services drivers will not be on the road. Please make appointments accordingly by calling the Center. Meals will not be delivered or served. Any shutin who wishes to order an extra meal should call the center by Friday of this week. Please do not call the homes of any driver for services, that is, for transportation on the minibuses, respite care or meals delivered. Call the Senior Center. All calls are logged accordingly at the office. The drivers do not take calls at their homes.

Two fold program

Our meals program is two fold. Meals are served at the High School every day that school is in session. A meal can be soup and sandwich, dessert and milk, or salad and sandwich dessert and milk or a full course meal. Coffee is available when you arrive. The complete price of any meal is $1.00. Shutins receive a full course meal. The drivers start delivering the meals at 10:30. Each driver is delivering about 40 meals a day, traveling approximately 38-42 miles a day. To get all the meals delivered by 1 p.m., some will receive their meals at 11 a.m., others will receive their's at 1 p.m. Please, if you wish a meal served at the school or a home delivered meal, call the Center the day before or the Friday before for the following week.

A reminder

When Wilmington schools are canceled due to inclement weather, the Buzzell Senior Center will cancel all activities for the day. Those include meals on wheels, programs and classes and transportation. The staff will be in the office based on travel conditions. Listen to WRKO, WHDH, WBZ and tv channels four, five and seven for no school announcements. It appears this winter is not going to be the best. I would suggest you make sure you keep a supply of non perishable foods, batteries for flashlights on hand for a day or so to carry you through a possible power loss.

Telephone reduction

Seniors receiving financial assistance through emergency aid to the elderly, disabled, SSI, Medicaid, Food Stamps or Fuel Assistance, can receive a $9.50 reduction in the basic monthly telephone rate. Eligibility must be verified by the welfare office or the fuel assistance. To receive an application or for more information call your NYNEX Service representative at 1-800-980-9999 or 508-620-8500.

Winter problems

Winter brings many falls, flu, pneumonia and heart attacks. It is very important to know the names of all medications you are taking, in the event that you are unable to speak for yourself. You have a file for life folder in your wallet, with the names of your medications and dosage being taken. If other medications are to be given, it could be very dangerous to your health. Some medications, particularly those for the heart, could intermingle with other medications activating with the medication you are now taking can increase the action of the heart drug causing a toxic effect. If you do not have a file of life form in your wallet now, drop by the Senior Center and have one made out. This is a very important, every senior should have one.

Four locals to help benefit Travis Roy Fund

by Jeff Nazzaro

If you haven't been able to score a ticket for the NHL All-Star game later this month at the Fleet Center, fear not - it's not the only great game in town. January 20, the Skate III in Tyngsboro will play host to a hockey clash being billed as something of a battle of the ages, with a lot of local flavor and a great cause mixed in.

Next Saturday, beginning at 7:20 p.m., the Matthew's All-Star Mens Super A hockey team will take on the Tyngsboro-Nashua Jr. Huskies with funds from the contest to benefit Travis Roy, the Boston University freshman who was paralyzed during the first shift of his first game as a Terrier.

The Matthew's squad is the reigning Northeast Regional Champions of the American Adult Hockey Association, a men's league comprised mostly of players between the ages of 22-32. The team features four players who are graduates of Wilmington High School: Tom Craig ('85), Dave Fuller ('85), Brian Walsh ('87), and Matt Calandrello ('95).

Craig and Fuller were part of the sensational 1984-85 WHS squad that went to the Division II state hockey final at the Boston Garden. Last year, Calandrello helped lead his WHS team into state tournament play, while Walsh, a co-captain of the Matthew's team, took his high school hockey career to the next level, starring for Bentley College and captaining the team his senior year.

In all, the Matthew's team boasts 12 players with college experience, including four Bentley grads and one, Joe Brine, of Austin Prep, who played division I hockey at Merrimack College.

That experience and skill has helped the Matthew's team to compile a whopping 16-0 mark, with wins over five college clubs, including Worcester State, 13-4, and Bentley, 12-2.

Their opponent, the Huskies, are a junior hockey club, with players ranging in age from 15-20. The game itself will be a first in New England - two great teams of, for the most part, players from different age brackets.

According to Matthew's coach Jack Calandrello, of Reading, "The importance of this game will be to show young players and their families that at any age any game can be competitive and fun at the same time."

"This game represents youth, speed and conditioning versus experience, talent and motivation,"

Calandrello continued. "No matter what age you are, if you belong to a youth hockey program, if you're a high school player, a men's team player, or you just love the game, why stay home to watch TV when you can be there in person to witness a dream come true for many of these players and families, and help a worthy cause."

Tickets for the game are a heckuva lot cheaper (and easier to come by) than any NHL All-Star game. At $5 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and students, and $1 for children under 10, tickets can be purchased at local pro shops, or by calling Baystate Ticket Agency at 617-731-8499, or AA Super Tix at 603-669-1200. Tickets will also be available at the door on the day of the game.

Donations can also be forwarded by mail, with checks made payable to the Travis Roy Fund, c/o Tyngsboro Huskies, Tyngsboro Pavilion, Middlesex Road, Tyngsboro, MA 01879.

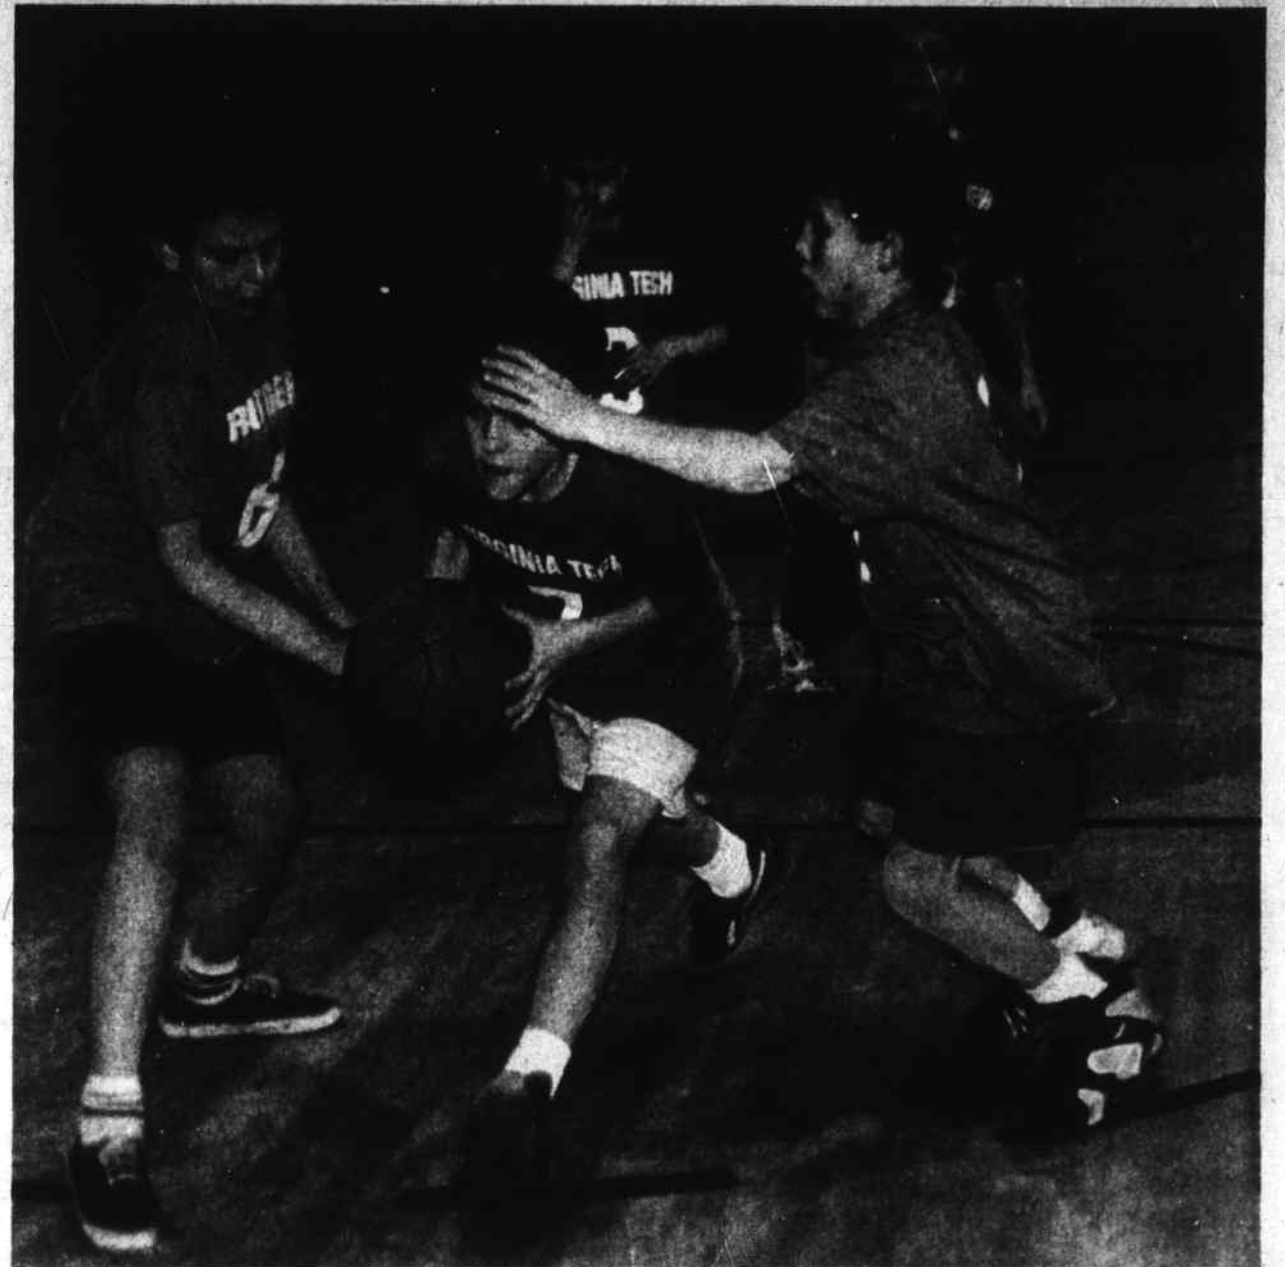

Gymnastics team flips into action

by James Pote

With almost the entire team new at the sport, the Wilmington High School gymnastics team lost in their season opener to Dracut 124.90 - 93.30. Even though the score may seem as if Wilmington didn't do that well, head coach Michelle Gillis knows they her young squad performed very well.

"The entire team is just about brand new and as a whole I thought they did very well for their first meet. Most of them have never tried the sport and they have already learned a lot. I was happy with their performances," Gillis said.

Michelle Neptepski led the way for the Cats with first place finishes in two of the four categories. She scored a 5.2 on the bars and a 6.75 on the vault. Also having productive days were Nicole Schell, who scored an 6.85 on the floor exercises, 5.5 on the beam and 6.2 on the vault and Terry Laquidara, who had the highest Wilmington score of the day at 7.3 in the floor exercises.

O'Toole and Tate lead wrestling squad

by James Pote

There are several Wilmington High School Athletic teams who have really taken a major step of improvement over the last few years. The rebuilding stages seem to be gone and now it's the developmental stages for teams like the ice hockey, boys basketball, boys tennis, the football team and last but not least the wrestling team.

Even though they were not among the top team finishers in the 15 team Haverhill Invitational Tournament this past Saturday, the Cats have really gone through some of their own winning ways - especially since the entire team are underclassmen.

Mike O'Toole led the team with a third place finish. He won several impressive matches before losing to the eventual 152 pound champion of that tournament.

Billy Tate also performed pretty well losing in the semi-finals, to the number rated wrestler in his 119 pound weight class. After taking down this champion from many other tournaments, Tate was pinned on a reverse move.

Tate finished in fourth place after winning his next match thereafter and then losing his second by one point in the last ten seconds of the match.

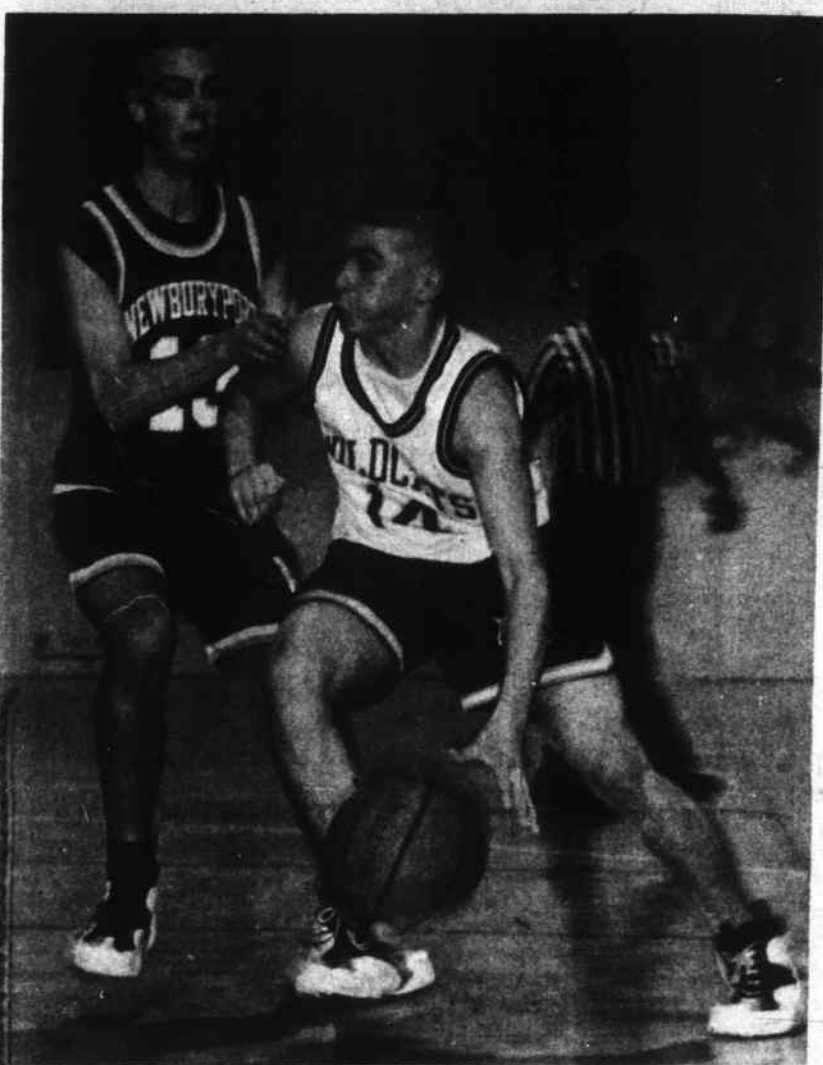

Shawn Sullivan nailed down his first official win of the season and head coach Mike Pimental said this could be a start of good things to come.

"Shawn has the skills, the proper techniques, he is quick, he is smart - he has everything but confidence and hopefully this win will really get him going," Pimental said.

Pimental said he was also pleased with the efforts from Dan Bonnell (112) and freshman Rob Sennler (130) who both fell victim of two tough losses despite very tough battles. According to the head coach, both of those guys just need more experience and they will do a lot better.

Squirt A's offense sparks against Methuen

Squirt A Highlights

After a second place finish in the Tewksbury Squirt Invitational Tournament, the Wilmington Youth Hockey Squirt A Team returned to regular season play in the Valley Youth Hockey League. The Wildcats came up with one loss and one tie in recent action to bring their record to three wins, five losses and one tie.

Seacoast 4 Wilmington 2

In a rematch of last season's championship game, the Wildcats faced off against the NH Seacoast Spartans. Seacoast came into the game with an undefeated record and the top ranking for a Squirt team in the Valley League. Unfortunately for Wilmington, the Spartans left with both their record and ranking intact.

The Wildcats gave Seacoast a run for its money despite playing with a very short bench. Wilmington played only eight skaters plus the goalie due to conflicts and vacation plans.

Winger David Velardo gave Wilmington the lead at 3:43 of the first period assisted by Sean Layton.

After Seacoast tied the game early in the second period, Danny Zuccaro knocked home a Joe Luciano rebound to again give the Wildcats the lead at 2-1. This was to be the Wildcats' last lead of the game.

Wilmington's short bench proved to be its undoing. Seacoast tied the game on a power play late in the second period and then added two more goals in the third period for the win.

The exhausted Wildcat defense of Kevin Tobin, James O'Neil, Greg Buck and goalie Paul Sferazza did their best to hold off the Seacoast attack, but were unsuccessful.

Wilmington's forward lines of Velardo, Layton, Luciano, Zuccaro and Danny Liberty also gave a valiant effort to keep up the Wilmington attack, but on this morning were just out gunned by a very good team.

Wilmington 5 Methuen 5

The Wildcats and the Methuen Rangers battled to a five all tie in an exciting contest that saw several lead changes and wasn't decided until the final minute of play.

Winger Sean Layton gave the Wildcats the lead with an unassisted goal at 8:25 of the first period. Layton has been on a red hot scoring tear lately. The goal was his 11th in his last seven games.

After Methuen tied the score at 4-4, Wilmington appeared to regain the lead when center Mike Rideout scored. Rideout beat a Methuen defenseman to a loose rebound in front of the goal and shot it into the net, but the goal was disallowed as the play was whistled dead.

Danny Liberty again gave the Wildcats the lead early in the second period with a wrap around goal. Linemates Anthony Tomasi and Layton were credited with helpers on Liberty's goal.

At this point the scoring pace picked up and the teams combined for four goals in the next two minutes.

After Methuen struck back to tie the game a power play goal, Joe Luciano answered with an unassisted goal to regain the lead at 3-2 Wilmington.

The Rangers again rallied and answered the Wildcats' goal with two of their own in under one minute. The momentum and lead now favored Methuen.

The Rangers added another goal to now lead 5-3 in the second period before the Wildcats could respond. Wilmington added a power play of its own to make it 5-4 with 1:20 left in the second stanza. Danny Liberty notched his second of the day and 10th of the regular season again assisted by Layton and Tomasi.

Throughout the final period the Wildcats controlled the play but failed to score. Finally with just 49 seconds remaining, Joey Giordano tied the game. Giordano took a centering feed from Luciano, pivoted, and cleanly beat Ranger net minder Clark Delaney. The goal was Giordano's fifth of the regular season with assists to Luciano and defenseman Matt Porter.

The game ended at tied at five with the Wildcats lucky to steal the point. The team refused to quit and showed a lot of character rallying in the final period. Goaltender Paul Sferazza and the defense of Porter, Greg Buck, Kevin Tobin and special guest defenseman Dave Velardo shut down the Methuen offense for the final period.

Also the forward lines of Liberty, Tomasi, Layton, Luciano, Giordano, Rideout, James O'Neal and Danny Zuccaro helped with their solid back checking and combined to outshoot the Rangers by a 10 to 3 margin in the third period.

Hockey team loses tough one, 3-1

by James Pote

When John Considine scored in the first 12 seconds, it looked as if Wilmington was really stepping up their play with the thoughts of beating a few of the Big Dogs from the neighborhood.

But, even though they squandered many other scoring opportunities, the Wilmington High School hockey team could not light the lamp from those early seconds as they lost 3-1 to a very good yet skillful and physical Clippers squad.

It wasn't that Wilmington reached their plateau and they decided to jump backwards, it was a case of a great back-and-forth game where Newburyport buried their bones and Wilmington couldn't or didn't bury their own.

However, these pups have growled up to some pretty big St. Bernards the past few years and they continue to improve everyday and every year - so their is plenty of time for Wilmington to be the leader of the fearsome neighborhood.

"I thought it was a great game. We had our chances and we just couldn't put them away, head coach Steve Scanlon said. "Our defensive crew [Dave Bennett, Brian Farkas, Mike Berian and Brian Hermann] played the best as they have all season for us - all four of them played really well."

"Jason [Dango, Wilmington's goalie] played really well - he made some big saves. I was really happy with the play of John Considine - he never stopped hustling, he always was backchecking and played his best game I have ever seen him play. It was a good game and they are a great club - we just couldn't get the win," Scanlon continued.

After Dennis Torpey and Ryan Haubner nabbed their fourth and sixth assists, respectively, setting up John Considine's second goal of the year, the rest of the first period was scoreless. Newburyport scored two goals in the second period in 36 seconds, for the eventual tying and game-winning tally.

The Clippers added a third goal in the third period less than six minutes into it, to put the game away, which put Wilmington at 4-2 record-wise overall and 2-1 in the Cape Ann Large School Division.

Right now Scanlon is skating three solid lines, which he has shaken up a bit as of late. John Considine is now playing with Torpey and Haubner on the first crew, which has combined for 23 points in the team's first five games.

Danny Abbott, one of the most underrated players in the league, is playing with strong and potent goal scoring wingers Lee Trimarchi and Charlie Ross - a line that seems to be clicking and a line that should really do well. Those three guys have combined for 26 points thus far including 13 goals.

Finally, Kevin Carroll, Justin Vallas and Kevin Considine make up the third line and they have also contributed with three goals and eight assists in their early goings.

It was originally thought that, Newburyport would be second of three extremely tough teams for the Cats to face in a row in a ten day span. But, Mother Nature postponed at least one of those thoughts. Last Wednesday's home game where the Cats were looking for revenge on the perennial powerhouse squad from Masconomet, was postponed until Saturday, Feb. 10 at 2:20 at Ristuccia Exposition Center.

As for upcoming games for the Cats, this Wednesday night, Jan. 10, the team will face another strong CAL team in Triton. Thereafter its North Reading on Saturday at Merrimack College at 12:20 and then a seven day lay-off before Hamilton-Wenham comes to town the following Saturday afternoon.

Stars of the Week

Starting this week, the Town Crier will be picking Star Sports Persons of the Week (instead of the Athlete of the Month), from both Wilmington and Tewksbury.

The picks will be either athletes/coaches or anyone else involved with sports in the two towns from high school, college or from youth sports as well or various other organizations.

Ideas of different people can be submitted or phoned in to me, Jamie Pote, but their may be times when those names submitted are not picked.

This week's stars are as follows:

Greg Young
senior, Wilmington Track
Young took first place in the 800 meter run in the Dartmouth Relays that took place this past Saturday. This meet consisted of hundreds of the top track athletes from all New England plus New York, New Jersey, Canada including Montreal and Quebec.

Young has continued his brilliant four-year career at WHS, with his first place finish of 1:57.61.

Jason O'Connor
senior, Tewksbury Track
O'Connor raced in the same heat as did Young and he finished in third place among 120 high school athletes. A soccer play in the fall, O'Connor finished with a time of 2:00.23.

O'Connor was also the first leg of the relay team that consisted of himself along with Peter Saber, Rick Barker and Matt Toombs. O'Connor's time was 2:04.1, in the 800 which he and his teammates finished at 8:29.52 good for seventh place, and that time was five hundredths of a second off of finishing in fifth place.

Paul Allen, Dave Shunamon, Mike Howell & Dan Sdankus
Juniors, Tewksbury wrestling
These four wrestlers won all three of their matches during a one-day tournament held at Reading High School where Tewksbury beat Burlington, Reading and North Attleboro and all four of these guys were a major part of that.

Allen in the 135 weight class pinned two of his opponents and won on a major decision, 16-2 in the other. Sdankus pinned all three of his opponents in times of 0:57, 1:04 and 1:30. Shunamon pinned two of his opponents and also won a major decision, 19-5. Finally, Howell pinned all three of his opponents with times of 1:04, 1:06 and 1:10.

Mike O'Toole, junior
Wilmington Wrestling
O'Toole took third place as he completed a fantastic day for the Wilmington Wrestling team in the Haverhill Invitational Tournament held this past Saturday.

Mike Pimental, the head coach, said O'Toole wrestled his heart out and has really improved. O'Toole lost to the wrestler who ended up winning his 152 weight class.

Ron Bernard, junior Tewksbury Basketball
Bernard finished with 16 points and four rebounds in the Tewksbury boys varsity basketball team's fifth win over Dracut 62-46 on Tuesday night.

After being out of the line-up for nine days because he was ill, Bernard's second game back was a dandy as he helped the team with a 12 point second half deficit which put the Middies away for the 5-2 Redmen.

Sean Layton
Wilmington youth hockey
Layton has looked like the Great One or even the old Bobby Hull, scoring goals left and right for the Wilmington Squirt A youth hockey team as he has been a major factor to the team's three victories.

Layton scored his eleventh goal for the Cats in the team's last seven games, which included having one of those goals along with two assists in the team's 5-5 tie against Methuen this past week.

Dean Smith
Wilmington youth hockey
The Wilmington Mite A youth hockey team became the Eruzione Invitational Youth Hockey Tournament champions over the Christmas break and Smith was a major part of that winning trophy.

In the second game of the tourney, Smith led his team with a hat trick in their 5-1 victory.

Moore Employment Inc • 200 Jefferson Rd, Wilmington • (508) 657-6000

Never a quiet moment! While trying to pose with one of the many computers used for training, the clients just wouldn't stop calling. Answering the phone is owner Helen Moore, at the keyboard Carla DiBona with Barbara Steinbrecker looking on.

Especially during a slow and unpredictable economy, when a company's projected sales are soft, there may not be enough sales forecasted to warrant hiring regular permanent employees. However there are sales and production enough to warrant 2-3 months work, therefore, the use of temps is truly the best and most inexpensive way for companies to meet deadlines, etc. The company is relieved of costs to cover for vacations, medical leaves, etc. Over the past 12-years Moore has helped 100's of businesses save thousands of $'s for

- * Advertising
- * Time recruiting
- * Interviewing
- * Testing
- * Checking references
- * Cmptr training
- * Layoffs
- * Co-pd benefits (Med, Dental, Life Ins., Pensions & FUTA contributions, SUTA, Mass State Health) Etc.

Moore's reasonable hourly bill rates cover all mandatory costs, above, including the temp's hourly wage; the temp is a Moore employee and Moore offers HMO medical insurance + a variety of other benefits to its employees.

Small and expanding companies can eliminate the heavy recruiting for hiring permanent people by using the Moore Temp-to-Perm program. "We do all the work." For a specific opening, Moore provides their best person (a second if necessary); submit the resume, set up the interview. The qualified person accepts the assignment as temporary with the option of being hired permanently at a specified time with a small fee paid by the hiring company.

"Our records show over 500 people have been placed either directly or by the temp-to-perm method since Moore started in 1979." Just in the past two months they've placed 8 people into permanent jobs. Helen Moore sees a 20% growth since the 1st quarter of 1992.

Today, the temporary has the best chance of getting hired if a company is the "hiring mode."

"We work very hard in our recruiting process, carefully making decisions in all temp placements as though we were making a direct placement. This takes a great deal of time, effort, energy, costs, etc. We gladly accept this work! That's why we've been successful!! We know the value of the temp worker."

Since its opening, Moore Temps has always provided people, not bodies. Moore's commitment to excellence and quality is meeting the customers' requirements at all times, and continually strives to exceed them whenever possible. Moore's priority is and always will be quality service personified!

Ice is nice but snow is a pain

by Bill Conlon

Ice fishing is challenging enough, but all this snow makes things truly ridiculous. Not that snow will stop us from ice fishing, of course, but it makes things more difficult.

A dusting of snow on the ice is a Godsend, but too much white stuff is a royal pain.

Slick, glare ice is perfect for ice skaters, but it's a horror for anyone with a spine. Walking on glare ice sends my lower back into the ozone from all the slipping and sliding required to stay upright. A set of "creepers" strapped onto the boots provide some traction on glassy ice, but a light dusting of snow makes the steel spikes unnecessary.

But when there's two feet of snow on the pond, however, movement is even more difficult than walking on glare ice without spikes.

Trudging across the lake, with an auger in one hand, a bait bucket in the other and your gear and coffee in a bag slung over your shoulder, is no fun if you're slogging through snow up to your thighs. Talk about Heart Attack material!

Following a snowmobile track is much easier, if the "sleds" have been by. Luckily, there are dozens of kids riding snowmobiles around Lake Mascassic, so the ice should be covered with sled trails in time for Sunday's derby on the Tyngsboro lake. That's provided that the kids can keep their sleds moving in this much snow, but I have no doubt the little hellions are roaring along.

Possible solutions: Stick to the sled tracks, wear cross-country skis or snowshoes, or stay home. I'll be on the snowmobile tracks, thanks.

Another drawback to deep snow on the ice is keeping track of your fishing equipment.

A standard tipup stands about a foot tall when set up for business. On normal ice, you look out over five sticks, watching for one to turn into a "dotted i" when a fish takes a bite and sets off the flag.

But when there's more than a foot of snow, the sticks disappear. All you see is a snowfield, with no little sticks poking up. You can follow your own tracks to where the tipup should be, then pray that you'll see the flag when it flies. But if you don't see the flag, you'll be out of line by the time you check on it.

Even shovelling around the holes won't solve the problem. If you're sitting more than a few feet away, the cleared circle still isn't visible.

Solution: Keep walking, all day?

I own two of the "Polar" model tipups, and I'm leaving them home on Sunday. They lay flat on the ice, and the flag on a Polar flies barely a foot high when triggered. I'd never see that tipup until I stepped on it.

And there's a third problem, but I haven't done enough research on it one yet. It's only theory so far.

My theory is that heavy snow on top of the ice is deadly to fish.

I once ran across a problem while fishing on Peter's Pond in Dracut. Now, Peter's is a dark pond, caused by (I believe) an exposed peat bed somewhere under the surface. Did the tannic water make the problem worse? Possibly. There was thick snow on the ice that year, which I think was a bigger factor.

Anyway, I had my bait set a few inches off the bottom, which is the norm for ice fishing. A half hour after setting out my tipups I did the rounds, and all of the bait was stone dead. So I put on fresh shiners, did another bait check after 10 minutes, and the same thing happened: five tipups with five doornails for bait.

On a whim, I set one of my tipups very shallow, with the bait slightly below the ice. Boing! Flag up! I set my other four tipups at that depth, and boing, boing, boing! I didn't sit down the rest of the day.

I suspect that the oxygen level at the bottom of the pond was nil, due in part to the snow blocking off all the sunlight. The water just under the ice (I suspect) held oxygen, so all of the fish were clustered just under the surface.

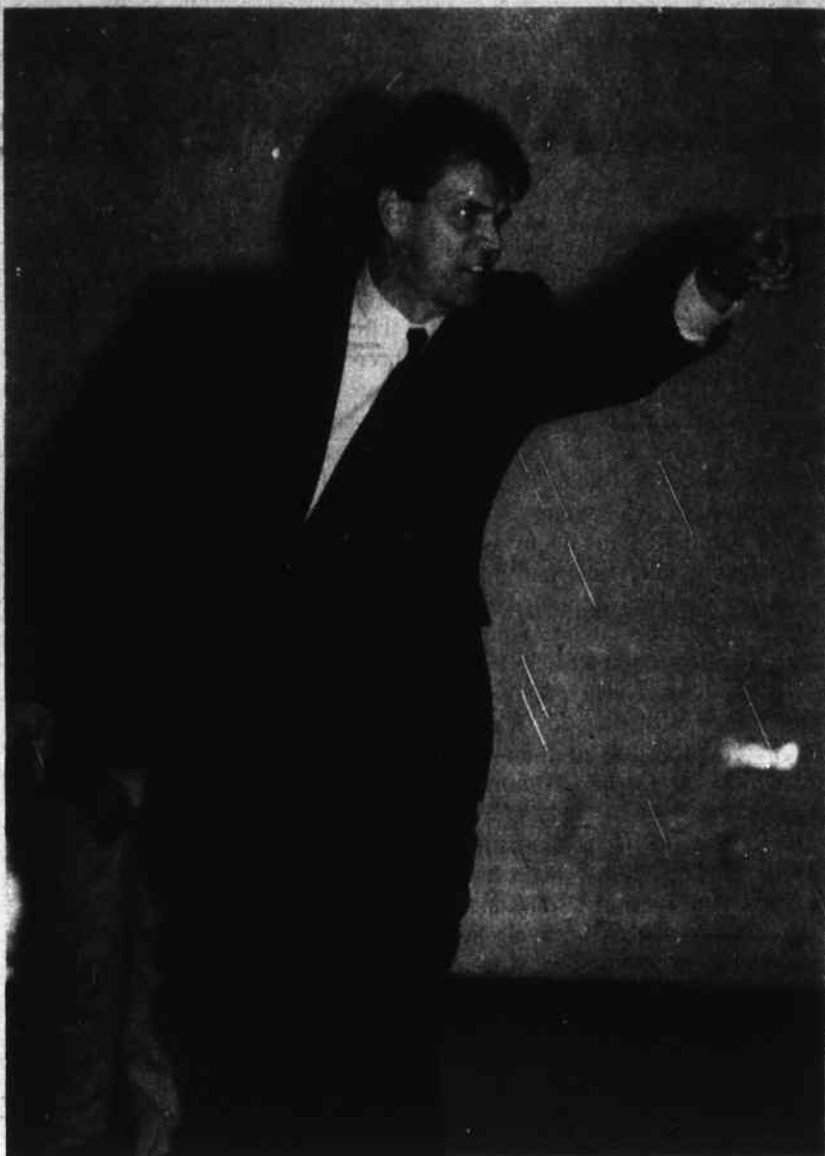

Will this heavy snow block off all sunlight, causing underwater plants to produce less oxygen? Possibly!

Solution: Pray for the fish and set the tipups on zero depth.

Oh, well. Thick snow layer? No biggie. I've been out ice fishing in rain, freezing rain, howling gales and fog. Snow? S'no problem!

— Tackle Box —

More stuff for the calendar! The big Pepsi-Rotary Ice Fishing Derby, based in Meredith, N.H., is on February 10-11 this year. Over 5,000 anglers customarily take part in this state-wide derby, with huge prizes on the line. Also, the 20th Eastern Fishing & Outdoors Expo will run Feb. 1-4 at the Worcester Centrum.

Mite C's tie

Mite C's rally for tie
Behind Matt Danecki's goal with about five minutes left in the game, the Tewksbury Mite C youth hockey team came from behind to tie a very tough Acton-Boxboro squad, 1-1 this past Sunday.

Johnny Cahalane helped out on the tying goal with an assist on a nice pass.

However, the tie was not safe until the final buzzer because goalie C.J. Walsh had to make several tough saves, including a breakaway stop, during the last few minutes of play.

Friars take care of Nets

Friars 39 Nets 36

This contest was close throughout as the Friars were led to the play making of Chris Mello, the hustle of Mark Wahl and the clutch shooting of Steve Zantini as the Friars defeated the Nets in a three-point game in recent Tewksbury youth hoop play.

Mark Pariseau's defense and the rebounding of Mike Giardina kept the Nets close until the final seconds.

Warriors 15 Clippers 13

The Warriors (2-1) held off a determined Clippers team. The victors received outstanding rebounding from Mike Nately and great defense from Nick Cioffi and Greg Weiss. The Clippers hung tough with the defense of Joe Coviello and the offense of Ryan Mooney and Steve McKenna.

Suns 31 Lakers 13

The Suns remain undefeated as they topped a determined Laker squad. Pat Gorman's tenacious defense and the play making of Bryan Donoghue and Mike Mosher kept the Lakers in the game.

The Suns offense was paced by Nick Manna and on the defensive end Jimmy Hill, Ryan Martel and Mike Williams were outstanding.

Wilmington Mite A's win Eruzione Tourney

The Wilmington Mite A youth hockey team stormed into Winthrop like the great blizzard of '96 and skated away with the first place crown in the annual Eruzione Invitational Tournament which was conducted over the Christmas school vacation.

Wilmington was scheduled to square off against squads from Malden, Melrose and Winthrop in the qualifying round. By virtue of their strong fore checking, which trapped opponents in their own ends for extraordinary amounts of time, the Wildcats downed Malden 3-1, Melrose 5-1 and Winthrop 2-1.

As a result, Wilmington returned on New Year's Day to usher in the new year with an encounter against Melrose for the tournament championship.

If the highlights of each game that deserve attention were to be described within this article, it would easily fill the entire sports section. Suffice to say, every player on the team was directly responsible for these victories. Not every player on the team may have scored in the tournament, but the goals were the end result of the team effort and the individual plays made by each one of the players.

In addition, there were many outstanding defensive plays made by defensemen and back checking forwards that thwarted any chances that the opposition had. Preventing teams from scoring is just as important as scoring goals. This was the attitude that the players exuded. And when all else failed, goalie Matt David was there to cast an impenetrable shadow around the Wilmington cage.

In the first game, Wilmington went all out in the first period as they swarmed Malden like bees on honey. As a result, Wilmington went up 3-1 in the first period with goals from Timmy Aldrich, Kyle Brown and Ray Bennett. But those goal scorers didn't work alone as their assists went to Bennett, Aldrich and Marshall Nevins.

The 3-1 margin at the end of the first period was it for the scoring part of the game as Wilmington continued to control the game with solid offensive opportunities as well as an impressive defense as well to have them advance to another round.

In the second game, Wilmington broke open a tied game with a three goal burst late in the second period and never looked back as they cruised to a 5-1 victory.

Dean Smith led the team as he registered a hat trick and Mark Giordano and Ray Bennett contributed with one strike apiece. Jacklyn Rideout and Robbie Peterson picked up assists. And once again, the Wilmington players smothered their foe in their own end which led to the Wilmington goals.

The third game of the tournament had the Cats up against the hosts of the successful tourney Winthrop, in a very close game. Wilmington just barely held on for another win, as they continued to play terrific two-way hockey. If the third period was one second longer, it would have been a tied game as Winthrop scored just a tad too late. Wilmington scorers were Robbie Peterson and Kyle Browne and helpers were dished out by Browne and Nevins.

On to the finals! The previous three games meant nothing to this point, and it all came down to one game, and it was known that Melrose would be seeking revenge.

The first period was marked by end to end action and brilliant goaltending at both ends of the packed arena and closed in a scoreless tie.

Midway through the second, Robbie Peterson stole the puck in the Melrose end and screamed a wrist shot into the Melrose net to put the Cats up by one. Melrose refused to roll over and answered back early in the third stanza to lock the game at one. This would mark the beginning of a see-saw battle throughout the rest of the game. Wilmington returned the volley two minutes later as Kyle Browne slammed home a pass from Michael McMahon.

Melrose responded again with four minutes remaining in the game and it the smell of overtime started to linger. Displaying character, Wilmington fought harder than they had all week and with just under two minutes remaining, the Cats, Browne took a pretty feed from Nevins and the former beat the Melrose goalie to make it 3-2 in favor of the Cats.

When order was restored following the goal, Wilmington tried desperately to hold on. In the waning seconds, the Wildcat defense cleared the puck amidst a goal hungry scramble in front of their own end following a remarkable save by Matt David. The buzzer sounded and the Wildcat players swarmed their netminder in a wild celebration.

First place trophies were awarded to each player by former Olympian Mike Eruzione in post game ceremonies.

Congratulations to the players, Timmy Aldrich, Ray Bennett, Kyle Browne, Matt David, Mark Giordano, Michael McMahon, Marshall Nevins, Robbie Peterson, Stephen Peterson, Eric Raposo, Jacklyn Rideout, Dean Smith, Kevin Velardo and Zach Wilkins. Without the contribution of each one of these players, none of this would have been possible. Congratulations to the Mite A players!

Wilmington Pee Wee C's win again

Wildcats win again

The Wilmington Pee Wee C youth hockey squad, put in a superb effort for a 6-0 shut out win over Pentucket in a new arena.

The Bruins have the Fleet Center and now the Valley League has the Merrimack Valley Forum. The Forum opened Friday night on the site of the old Frost Arena. And Wilmington wanted to start the new year off continuing to play they way they are capable of - which is, hard work at all times.

Wilmington began the Pentucket game with a sleepy attack as the game's 9:10 p.m. start had a few players battling the sandman.

But, the catnap for the Wildcats, ended at 5:14 of the first period. Ryan Thibodeau scored a goal on a quick breakout from the defensive zone. John Conley started the play from his own end passing the Nugget to an uncovered Thibodeau. Ryan headed down the left side of the ice and made a terrific backhanded shot that quickly grabbed the far top corner of the twine.

Before the first period ended Kyle Burns gave the Cats a 2-0 lead. Kyle's goal came via the forechecking of Steve Smith. Smith broke up a Pentucket player just inside the blue line. He banged the puck up the right side of the boards where Burns made a deposit banking his shot off the far post and into the guarded vault.

Wilmington goalie John Dell'Anno was pulling a Brink's job of his own at the other end of the ice during the second period of play as Pentucket put pressure on the Cats repeatedly. Dell'Anno did his best cat burglar imitation of the season. John swiped the puck from his crease on what looked like sure Pentucket goals.

However, from between the pipes, Dell'Anno went a step further and divested in his own offense. John got his first assist of the season when he made a save, cleared the puck on a pass to Ryan Thibodeau, who threaded the needle with a pass to linemate Kyle Burns splitting the defense and then he doubled his stock in goals for the second straight game. The second period ended 3-0 but not for the outstanding play of the defense the game could have been a tie at that point.

Wilmington put the game away in the third period when the Squirt players who joined the Pee Wees made a huge contribution. Danny Liberty exercised his options on a hot tip from Squirt teammate Danny Zuccaro at 6:09, giving the home team a 4-0 lead.

With just 2:44 remaining winger Colin Sheehan scored on what appeared to be a centering pass from behind the goal line near the left corner. Burns, known as a pesky little player, was in front of the net looking for the hat trick. Pentucket's goalie tried to break up the pass and deflected the puck into the net.

The final goal was scored by Dan Liberty with 22 left in the game. Matt Porter invested in hockey futures zipping the puck to Liberty on the left wing. Danny saw an open Burns by the right side of the net and snapped off a perfect shot that grabbed the far corner of the net for his second goal of the game.

The Wildcat defensemen Brian Considine, Ryan Gaudet, Matt Porter and Danny Zuccaro played magnificent preserving the first shutout of the season.

The Pee Wees are looking forward to continuing their strong play during the District 10 play-downs beginning this weekend in Somerville.

Dr. D's picks

Due to last week's storm(s), Dr. D's valuable picks were unavailable, but the King says he went 2-2 anyway. His playoffs picks stand at 3-5 right now. This week he says, Pittsburgh will beat Indianapolis 35-12 and Green Bay will beat Dallas in a nailbiter 28-27.

Wilmington traveling hoop

The Wilmington eighth grade traveling youth basketball team has made a noteworthy start for this season. Not only have they beat a few very good teams, but they have also played some pretty good hoop as well.

The team has a 3-2 record thus far including impressive victories over Lowell, Chelmsford, Tewksbury and Haverhill.

This year's team has added two big newcomers to the roster in Brian Mather and A.J. Mitzen. Mather's presence alone is worthwhile as he brought his height to the team, which has helped him earned the center spot.

Mitzen, on the other hand, is helping to balance the guard position.

Other members of the team who are really playing well and helping to gell the team together, are second year players Jimmy Rourke and Mark Rappoli. These two guys continue to shuffle around the court making themselves known.

Third year veterans players such as Sean Quigley, Joey Kane, Marty Tildsley, Darren Aciero, Eric Swieczynski, Jason Thresher and Martin DeAngelo have shown how experience is one of the many building blocks which helps put the entire puzzle together.

Coaches Chris Aciero and Marty Tildsley Sr. are pleased with the attitude and teamwork being displayed and anticipate an action filled season.

The team plays all of their games on Sunday afternoons at Shawsheen Tech.

Redmen boys hoop 5-2 behind Bernard

by James Pote
With five of its players with at least eight points, the Tewksbury High School boys varsity basketball team improved their overall record to 5-2, led by a combined 34 points from senior Mike Torode and junior Ron Bernard in their 62-46 win over Dracut on Tuesday night.

After leading by five points at the half, Tewksbury trounced the Middies in the second half by a margin of 36-24. Not only was the offense looking pretty good, but so was the defense.

"We have been stressing defense since the first day - last year it seemed like it was stressed on the eleventh day," said head coach Jeff Nelson.

Nelson also said it was a complete team effort instead of the one-dimensional play. He said players like Ron Bernard, who was out for nine days because he was ill and Matt Petros who can shoot the daylights out, but was struggling, really played extremely well and he said that was because of their dedicated efforts.

"Ronnie can really become a really good basketball player - he just has to continue to work as hard as he has been," Nelson said. "Matt is a great shooter and he really plays great defense. When his shots were not falling in, he stayed after practices to work on his shooting and that is why he had a great night tonight - because he worked for it. It was a complete team effort."

The Redmen really opened up the game in the second half. After a pretty good first half, where Torode, T.J. Greenan and Bernard combined for 24 of the team's 26 points, the second half saw Petros sink in all of his ten points as well as Carl Cyr adding eight of his own with Bernard and Torode combining for 16 more.

"I would say that tonight was the best all around effort we have had thus far," Nelson said.

After starting the second half on a 9-4 edge, Dracut was able to close the lead to 38-37 finishing an 12-3 run in a span of four minutes with about nine minutes to go in the game.

But, Ron Bernard closed out any of the thoughts of Dracut winning their first league game in nearly two years, when he drove hard to the hoop drawing a foul and sinking his shot while falling face first out of bounds. However, Dracut tied the game at 41 with 6:55 remaining, and Tewksbury went on a 21-5 run in those last minutes of the game.

In that impressive span, Torode from the right base line drove to the net and dribbled underneath the basket and he sank a left handed jumper to make it 46-41 and Tewksbury never looked back from that point on.

Also in that second half span, Petros also drove to the net, with an up and under maneuver off the glass to hit two of his ten. Petros nailed a jumper added to a lay-up on a great pass from Matt Adams off a steal and the rest was history.

Tewksbury girls traveling hoop

The Tewksbury girls seventh grade traveling hoop team kicked off its season with two big wins over Dracut and Methuen and a heartbreaking loss at the buzzer against Burlington.

The season opened with a great game with Kaitlyn O'Brien leading the scoring with 12 points in the victory over Dracut; Jessica Breslin had ten; Nicole Poirier eight; Amy LeBoeuf five and Sarah Fitzgerald contributed two to round out the rest of the scoring attack. Carolyn Sanborn and Heather Laffey played great defense. The final score was 45-37.

The Methuen game was also a nailbiter with both teams trading baskets until the final minutes. Kaitlyn O'Brien lead the way again with a personal best of 22 points. Amy LeBoeuf added seven and lead the defensive effort. Nicole Poirier had eight, Jessica Breslin four and Amy Von Kahle and Heather Laffey had three apiece. That final score was also 45-37.

The game against Burlington will be long remembered by both players and fans as a great one with Tewksbury losing at the buzzer. With 11 seconds left Amy Von Kahle tied the score with two foul shots. Burlington scored at the buzzer to give them the 36-34.

Contributing in that game was Kaitlyn O'Brien who was again high scorer with 15 impressive points, while, Amy Roy, Jessica Breslin, Nicole Poirier, Amy Von Kahle and Amy LeBoeuf each had four to round out the scoring. Amy Roy and Sarah Fitzgerald also played great defense.

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never found to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel,
Fruitful Vine, Splendour of Heaven, Blessed
Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate
Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O
Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein
you are my Mother.
O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succour me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.
O, show me herein you are my Mother. O
Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)
Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times)
Say for 3 consecutive days and publish.
God Bless
E.G.N.

NOVENA to ST. JUDE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us, and St. Jude, the worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer nine times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will have been answered.
This prayer has never been known to fail.
Publication promised. My prayers have been answered.

Wakefield's Kathleen Brennan

She's Editor of "Maine Campus"

By PAUL FEELY

WAKEFIELD - In this age when most college students are studying to enter a financially lucrative career, it's not often that one decides to major in one that carries with it long hours, little pay, and more complaints than praise, but Wakefield native Kathleen Brennan is doing just that.

Brennan is currently enrolled at the University of Maine in Orono, where she works as the editor of The Maine Campus, which has been the student newspaper for that school since 1875.

"I like it, but it's stressful," said Brennan. "I've never had a position like this before. It's helped me deal with people better, because you can't turn them away now, or send them somewhere else. If they have a problem with you or the paper, I'm the one they have to talk to."

As the editor of the paper (which is published three times a week), Brennan, 21, attends classes during the day, and then heads off to the paper's offices. She checks with the city editors who assign the stories to reporters, to find out what will be appearing in upcoming issues.

She then begins to decide what the layout of the next issue will look like, passes judgement on what the topic of the paper's editorial will be and who will write it, and then begins the lengthy job of reading and editing all the stories that will appear in print, from straight news to arts and sports stories.

With each issue ranging from 16 to 24 pages, how does she find the time to hit the books? According to her, it isn't easy.

"As it is now, my schoolwork has to come second," said Brennan. I still do well, but I had to make a conscious decision when I took the job that the classwork would come second. That just comes with the job. My last editor told me that, and I knew what it would be like before I took the position this year."

Academically she has proven that it is possible to have your cake and eat it to, by gaining valuable experience in the news writing profession and maintaining a 3.2 GPA (as of last June). She has also received a Presidential Pin from UMaine for maintaining a 3.67 GPA for the 1994 school year, and is a member of the Society of Professional Journalists and National Honor Society.

Brennan put in a lot of hours at the paper's offices over the past three years, starting out as a staff writer in September, 1994, and eventually working her way up to the position of Assistant City Editor, and then City Editor in January of 1995.

"Kate didn't have a long background with the paper when she became editor," said Doug Kneeland, a reporter with the New York Times for 22 years and Chicago Tribune for 11 years, who now works as an

KATHLEEN BRENNAN, 21, of Wakefield, has worked her way up from a staff writer at the University of Maine at Orono's student newspaper, The Maine Campus, to become the editor of that publication in just one year. To do that would constitute a gross betrayal to themselves, our children and most of all to our Creator, whose commandment was and still is, "Teach them to observe all things."

We are indeed fortunate to have many teachers who take justifiable pride in their profession. They see in their student's the future of America. "God Bless Them."

I thought my Aunt Nora was giving me a compliment when she said to me, "Chipper, you are on a par with Albert Einstein-only 12 people understood what he was writing or talking about too."

Jim and Carol Harris, Lauren Brady Susan Carle, Enrico Dicenso, Amy Patterson, Lori Ricciardi and Kathleen Dello Russo all of MEDFORD.

Angelo Quaganti said, "Father, in this morning's sermon you said, 'we are on this earth to help others.' "Can you please tell me what the others are here for?"

When Frank LeMoure was a teenager he said to me, "Chipper watch this," and he threw a baseball up, swung at it with his bat and missed. He threw it up again and, then a third time and missed. "Well Chipper," he asked, "What do you think?" "Frank," I replied, "You're a lousy hitter but a terrific pitcher."

Folks, I was right, in the five years of semi pro baseball Frank pitched three no hitters and in all that time he was a no hitter at the bat himself.

Bob Bonney asked me, "How old is your wife Kathy?" "She's pushing 50." I said, Bob smiled and said, "She looks like she's 'dragging' it!"

The department store manager stopped the revolving doors and asked George Gould, "Sir, why are you going around and around in those doors?" "Well, to tell you the truth," George replied, "I don't remember whether I was going in the store or "OUT!"

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?

'Flaggs' interest in Lynnfield

Lynnfield's little acre

For only $10.
In 1803.
"Ten dollars was the selling price for a quarter-acre parcel of land in Lynnfield - in 1803, that is," notes a recent page one story in "The Lynnfield Villager."

"John Hart," notes the "Villager," sold the property to Polly Flagg, wife of Theodore Flagg, according to a deed recently acquired by the Historical Society.

"The land was measured at approximately 40 poles.

"The deed states the land was bounded 'easterly on the road leading from Charles Keith and son to Lynnfield Meeting House; southerly on Charles Keith and son field as the wall now stands; westerly as the wall stands by said John Hart's field till it comes to said Theodore Flagg dwelling house and then runs so as to include the land under the said Flagg house and then to the road first mentioned.'

"John Hart, who apparently could not sign his name, signed the document with his mark - a

Fighting teeth and eye

"With an eye on heightening its control over local cigarette retailers, specifically when it comes to violations involving tobacco sales to minors, the Wilmington Board of Health said ... it will look into regulating cigarette sales by requiring permits for all such sellers," notes the Wilmington edition of the "Town Crier."

"Citing surrounding towns, including Tewksbury, which requires cigarette retailers in that town to be permitted by its board of health, Wilmington Public Health Director Gregory Erickson informed the board that such regulations were indeed allowed by Mass. General Laws.

"Last year, when the board passed a regulation mandating $300 fines for any retailer caught selling cigarettes to minors, Chairman Dr. James Ficociello asked Erickson about the legality of requiring permits of retailers. Erickson said then he didn't think it was allowable, but ... he informed that board that it was indeed OK.

"And the board jumped at the mention.

At Heritage Museum

"Prince and the Pauper"

The two actors of Beau Jest Junior will present The Prince and the Pauper on Saturday, January 13, at 11 am at the Museum of Our National Heritage. Admission is $3 for children and $1 for accompanying adult.

Based on Mark Twain's novel, The Prince and the Pauper, Beau Jest Junior explores the unlikely story of two comrades, one heir to the throne, the other mired in poverty. Watch their adventures unfold across Merrie Olde Londone Towne as the duo portray the two friends, Knights and Sheriffs, Royal rubber ducks, dancing frogs, jesters

"For multiple violators, this will be something to get their attention with," Ficociello stated. "It will put teeth in the procedure."

"Erickson said that if passed, the board should require only nominal permitting fees of around $5, to cover processing expenses for the town. The idea, he said, was not to tax merchants out of business, but rather to give the board additional control over the sale of cigarettes to minors in Wilmington. The board appeared receptive to the low permitting fee suggestion.

"Using a hypothetical scenario, Erickson said the board would continue to fine retailers $300 for a first offense of selling to a minor, perhaps another $300 for a second offense and then, for a third offense, come back with a six-month permit suspension.

"But right now it's just discussion. Tobacco control officer Linda Kanter will gather drafts of tobacco regulations from other towns as a point of reference for the board at its next meeting ... After forging a set of its own regulations, the board will then hold a public hearing, likely in February.

"If new regulations are passed," notes the "Crier," "particularly those allotting new punishments for multiple sales violations, all retailers would have their current slates wiped clean."

And their consciences?

Editor of "Maine Campus"

From S-1

adviser to The Maine Campus. "The position is an elected one, and there were other candidates with a longer history of being with the paper, but she was voted in by her peers. She impressed a lot of people very quickly when she started writing for it. I think she's doing a very good job this year."

She was also a staff member in the news department of the campus radio station, 91.9 FM WMEB, where she would write, edit, and produce audio news stories, as well as read and anchor the nightly news broadcast.

For someone who has put so much time and effort into the journalism field, it's hard to believe that there was a time when she wasn't even sure what she wanted to do.

"I've always enjoyed writing, but I didn't join the paper until 1994, two years after I graduated high school," said Brennan. "Once I decided what I wanted to do, the school work became easier."

Brennan started writing for the Reading and Wakefield editions of the Daily Times Chronicle last June, a job that she continues to hold when she is home on semester breaks, and one she says gave her a lot of valuable experience.

"I had never done police work before, so that is a good part of my job there," said Brennan. "I also do a lot of meeting coverage, which has helped me. I think overall it's helped me become a better writer, and I think I've done some good stories."

Brennan says she has always been interested in writing, and that she started putting pen and pencil to paper at a very young age.

"When I was young, whenever I really liked something or had a bad experience, I would write about it in a journal," said Brennan. "I still do that. I've always found it easier to express myself by writing something down, rather than trying to explain it with my voice. Some people express themselves through music, some through art, but I do it through writing."

With her strong love for the written word, jumping headfirst into the world of professional journalism seemed like a logical move.

"Journalism gives me an opportunity to write a lot," said Brennan. "I'm really interested in people, and it's given me a chance to meet different people and write about them. Those are the types of stories I like doing best - feature stories. Straight news is interesting too, but I prefer features, and little, quirky stories."

Brennan wrote on her own while attending Wakefield High School (there was no student newspaper there) until she graduated in 1992, and was also involved with the soccer and indoor and outdoor track teams. She was also a member of the drama club, a love she has continued to explore in college, by working as a stage hand for the Maine Center for the Arts at UMaine.

"I really love writing stories about the arts, and journalism has helped me keep a hand in that," said Brennan.

In addition to her duties as editor, Brennan will be embarking on a new endeavor this spring - writing a book. She says it has been something she's always wanted to do, and is committed to setting aside the time to do it.

"It would be about friendship, and probably pretty autobiographical," said Brennan. "It would be about the experiences that my friends and I have been through."

Though she may eventually finish the book, it will certainly have to have an open ending, or at the very least a second volume. If she keeps on climbing the journalistic ladder, Kathleen Brennan will have many more enjoyable experiences to write about in the future.

Gun Show in Manchester this weekend

The 8th Annual Winter Manchester Gun Show will be held Saturday January 13 from 9am to 5pm and Sunday January 14 from 9am to 4pm. The show will be held at the New Hampshire State Armory in Manchester, New Hampshire.

There will be over 100 dealers from all the New England States plus dealers from New York and Pennsylvania displaying on 260 tables.

The focus of the show is to present an event where the public can buy, sell trade, and invest in all types of modern, antique, collectible, and military firearms plus related items. Hunters, sportsmen, and gun enthusiasts will be able to browse and buy all types of firearms, ammunition, accessories, and supplies from over 100 dealers during the show.

The Gun Owners of New Hampshire, New Hampshire Wildlife Federation, National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, and Ducks Unlimited will be in attendance during the Manchester Gun Show. These organizations will be available to answer all hunting related questions and enroll new members.

Admission is $6 per person, children 12 and under are free with an adult. The New Hampshire State Armory is located off I-293 exit 6 (Amoskeag Bridge Exit) in Manchester.

GREAT ESCAPE AUCTION JANUARY 27

The North of Boston convention and Visitors Bureau will hold its first annual "Great Escape" Auction on Saturday, January 27, at the Peabody Marriott Hotel. The opening bid will be at 8 pm with a preview starting at 7 pm.

A wide selection of items will be auctioned to the public, ranging from a weekend in Colorado at the Holiday Inn and a charter cruise with Yankee Whale Watch, to a feast at a Woodman's Restaurant and 15:60 second commercials on radio station WBACH, co sponsor of the event.

Proceeds from the auction will help benefit the non profit North of Boston CVB, match its state funding ($275,00 for fiscal 1995-96) with required private dollars. To reach its goal, the bureau is working cooperatively with its North of Boston membership base as well as tourism colleagues throughout New England.

"Our first annual Great Escape Auction promises to be a great time in support of the tourism industry," said Michelle Meehan, executive director of the North of Boston convention and Visitors Bureau. "The Bureau represents 32 communities in the region, and all of them benefit from our efforts to promote tourism, the second largest industry in the state."

The general public is invited to attend. Those interested in donation items to be auctioned should contact the NBCVB, no later than January 12th, in Beverly, 508-921-4990.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS PRESENTS OPEN FORUM

North Shore Women in Business invites women to attend its next breakfast meeting on Thursday, January 18, at the Village Green Restaurant, Route 1 North Danvers. A CENTURY OF TRADITION, A FUTURE OF OPPORTUNITY

Distribution Engineer

The Reading Municipal Light Department is a 100 year old municipal electric utility serving 25,000 customers in Reading, North Reading, Wilmington and Lynnfield Center.

Retirement has created an opportunity for a Distribution Engineer reporting to the Chief Engineer.

The successful candidate must possess the following:

- An Associate's Degree in Electrical Engineering Technology or related discipline is required. Bachelor's Degree in Electrical Engineering is preferred.
- At least 5 years experience working for an electrical utility in the design, maintenance, and operation of 14 kV overhead and underground distribution systems.
- Familiarity with functional areas related to 115 kV-14 kV substations with SCADA experience is helpful.
- Demonstrated project management skills are required.
- Superior communications skills are required in dealing with customers (internal and external), vendors and contractors.

The RMLD offers a comprehensive benefit package including pension plan, vacation, and a pleasant, smoke-free work environment. This opportunity is a union position.

If qualified, please mail or fax a resume as soon as possible to: Linda A. Bernat, Human Resources Manager, Reading Municipal Light Dept., 230 Ash Street, P.O. Box 150, Reading, MA 01867 Fax: (617) 942-2409.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Tradition? Tradition!

A tradition in the making

Lynnfield High recently announced its first annual "alumni winter symposium" planned for this month when high school has returned to its normal schedule and most colleges are not quite back in session.

"Sharing the First-Year College Experience" will feature members of the Class of 1995, returning to high school on a Friday morning to share how they have adjusted socially to the college environment and how well prepared they were academically.

"I think we're always looking to receive feedback about how the graduates are doing," said Lynnfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Palermo, via the "Lynnfield Villager," at a School Committee meeting.

A tradition already established

For a few years now, Student Admissions Council members and other alumnae of Our Lady of Nazareth Academy have been returning in droves to Wakefield from their home towns and current colleges to report on their college experiences. The popular informal student-to-student sessions for Naz juniors and seniors traditionally take place on the last day of school prior to Christmas vacation.

This year, the following students returned to Wakefield to speak about their experiences living on campus, attending such universities as MIT, St. Olaf's and Boston College; and commuting, living close to or at home.

From Lynnfield: Liana Dischino (OLN '95) spoke about Assumption College.

From Malden: Lisa Assetta (OLN '92) spoke about St. Joseph's; Erin Burgess (OLN '95) spoke about Fairfield; Andrea LaFauci (OLN '95) spoke about Trinity College; and Elisa Manganelli (OLN '94) spoke about Stonehill.

From Medford: Sheila Grant (OLN '95) spoke about St. Michael's.

From Melrose: Erin (OLN '92) and Melissa (OLN '95)

Phair spoke about Holy Cross.

From North Reading: Elizabeth Moran (OLN '95) spoke about Bentley and Kerry Moynihan (OLN '93) spoke about Quinnipiac.

From Reading: Alissa Blomberg (OLN '95) spoke about St. Olaf.

From Stoneham: Kerry Fallon (OLN '93) spoke about Westfield.

From Wakefield: Amanda Lofton (OLN '95) spoke about MIT and Lucy Matthews (OLN '95) spoke about Katharine Gibbs.

From Andover: Christi Connor (OLN '94) spoke about Ohio University and Julie Kenny (OLN '94) spoke about Bridgewater.

From Boston: Tonia Guarino (OLN '94) spoke about Boston College.

From Everett: Aimee Boudreaux (OLN '94) spoke about Syracuse.

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 11, 1996-PAGE S-11

From Ipswich: Jill Pappas (OLN '95) spoke about Quinnipiac.

From Methuen: Caroline Breglia (OLN '93) spoke about Florida Tech and Dorothy Regan (OLN '94) spoke about Bentley.

From Revere: Melissa Carbone (OLN '95) spoke about Suffolk.

From Saugus: Michelle Couture (OLN '95) spoke about Assumption.

too high and is currently looking into the situation.

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

A tradition to ponder

Lynnfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Palermo noted at a recent School Committee meeting that 28 of 149 middle school eighth graders have submitted applications to schools other than Lynnfield High. He feels that number is

Fun faucets

It's easy to tap into the increasingly popular sports-themed home decorating trend with fun new sports faucets.

Conversation-starting faucets, designed with a choice of baseball, basketball and soccer handles by Sterling, A Kohler company, can add excitement to a child's bathroom - decorated with matching sports towels and wallpaper.

Easy to install and clean, sport faucets incorporate washerless design for years of trouble-free operation. When children are grown or tastes change, the sports handles are easily replaced with traditional styles.

Children find these fun faucets easy to use. Having such exciting hardware might even encourage more frequent brushing of teeth and hand washing.

Sports faucets are also available in a model just for Dad's basement wet-bar, and will complement his sports trophies and team pictures.

For more information on the full line of Sterling products, write to Marketing Services Department, Sterling Plumbing Group, 2900 Golf Road, Rolling Meadows, IL 60008, or call toll-free, 1-800-895-4774.

Your home: Q & A

How can I protect my home from pipes bursting in this cold weather?

The answer is to leave the faucets turned on to trickle strength when your water is shut off for any reason, or when the weather is freezing so the sudden surge doesn't burst pipes.

Homes in nearly every part of the country are susceptible to frozen pipes. Even an eighth-inch crack can pour out 250 gallons of water a day, reports Dean Flesner, vice president for State Farm Fire and Casualty Company, the nation's largest home insurer.

Fortunately, there are some easy ways to make sure frozen pipes do not become unwelcome visitors to your home. Here are a few tips:

Before cold weather hits:

- Insulate pipes most susceptible to freezing. Typically, there are near outer walls, in crawl spaces and in the attic.

- Seal any leaks that let cold air inside near where pipes are.

- Disconnect all garden hoses. If there's an indoor valve, shut off and drain the water supply to outdoor faucets.

- Make sure all family members know the location of the home's water shut-off valve. If a pipe bursts, shutting off the water promptly can help minimize damage.

If bitter cold is expected:

- Open cabinet doors under sinks on outside walls to let in warm air.

- Let hot and cold water faucets trickle overnight.

- If no one will be home for several days, set the heat no lower than 55 degrees. Have someone check the home daily to make sure the heat is on.

In addition, when the forecast is for freezing weather, beam a small lamp or heater at exposed pipes. If you have uninsulated pipes, wrap them with newspaper, foam or tape to provide additional insulation. Open doors in cabinets and unheated rooms so that warm air can reach pipes located in these areas.

Another way many builders and homeowners are avoiding the problem of frozen pipes is by turning to materials that are less susceptible to bursting. Polybutylene pipe offers an excellent alternative to rigid metal pipes that can rupture when frozen water expands. PB pipe is more tolerant to freezing damage because of its elasticity. When frozen water expands, the polybutylene expands with it, returning to its normal shape when the frozen water thaws. Polybutylene also offers more insulation from the cold than metal pipes.

Laboratory tests sponsored by the State of Wisconsin confirmed the ability of PB pipe to withstand repeated exposure to freezing temperatures. When exposed to five freeze/thaw cycles during a laboratory test, none of the PB pipes cracked or leaked. Metal pipe in the test failed within two freeze/thaw cycles.

PB has gained widespread acceptance since it was first introduced 25 years ago. It is rugged but much easier to install than rigid metal pipe, making it ideal for new construction or remodeling. PB is also friendly to the environment, eliminating the use of lead solder and is even available in specially designed systems that help conserve water.

If your metal pipes do freeze, remember to thaw them very carefully. It is necessary to turn off the main water supply before attempting to thaw the pipes and waterproof the area where you will be working in case the pipe does burst or leak.

If your pipes freeze:

- Don't try to thaw a pipe with an open flame or torch.

- Be careful of electric shock in areas of standing water.

Remember, with a little preventive action, you can often avert thousands of gallons of water from spilling on your floors and walls, furniture and appliances.

Whole house audit

The best way to make sure that your plumbing, heating and cooling systems are performing as they should is to start at the bottom and work your way up. Your whole-house audit should start early in the spring, begin in the basement and include the following:

- Sump pumps do not need much maintenance but you should keep the sump pit debris-free by scooping out the sediment at the bottom of the 30-inch deep pit.

- Air conditioners: This system works best when checked by a professional before each cooling season. Trim away any shrubbery that might have grown too close to the outdoor unit. Wash down the outdoor coil with a garden hose to remove any accumulated debris. Change the filter.

Since it's more cost efficient to have a professional check both the heating and cooling system at the same time, now's the time to give your heating system a check.

- Furnaces or Boilers: Although it's the largest energy user in the home, most people don't think about their furnace or boiler unless it stops running. A good rule of thumb is to con-consider replacing your furnace or boiler if it is more than 20 years old and has been experiencing minor breakdowns.

- If your water heater is ten to 15 years old, it will need to be replaced soon. Experts at the National Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors suggest that the average family of four needs a 50-gallon unit to insure fast recovery of hot water.

- Fix all leaky faucets and fixtures. A leaky faucet can waste 1,000 gallons of water every month. Remember to check your toilets as well. If you can hear the water running into the closet bowl after the toilet is flushed, some part of the toilet is out of order.
